Quizzed in Death Of Somerville Cop

Bay Stater Taken Off 'Exodus'—John Stanley Grauel of Worcester, who identified himself as an Episcopal minister, is shown after he was taken from the illegal immigrant ship Exodus of 1947 at Haifa when British forces intercepted the vessel carrying 4500 Jewish refugees, including the women and babies at right. Grauel, who was relieved of his documents and U. S. passport, was later released on intervention of American consul.

Holdup Pair Suspects in Cop Killing

Rounded up in a police trap, a Dorchester man and a Brockton man who admitted a long series of liquor store and taxicab holdups in Greater Boston, were grilled at length today in the fatal shooting of Somerville Patrolman Michael J. Dowd. Dowd was shot June 12 by a gunman he surprised breaking into a liquor store at Highland and Willow aves.

ANTHONY MACERO
Identifies Suspects as Bandits

Both suspects steadfastly denied the Dowd shooting, but after long questioning in the headquarters lineup, they were taken to Station 15 in Charlestown where Somerville police stood ready to confront them with witnesses to the holdup which caused the death of the Somerville officer.

Boston detectives first sought to link them with the Somerville shooting when three Somerville residents went to headquarters here to identify them as the holdup pair who victimized them last month.

Anthony Macero, of Joy st., Somerville, owner of a Washington st., Somerville cafe, identified the two as the bandits who held up his place of business at midnight on June 22. His son, Anthony, Jr., identified one as the gunman who fired at his father. The shot struck the elder Maceros belt buckle thus saving him from serious injury and perhaps death.

Elwin Gay, of Walnut st., Somerville, a radio repairman, pointed out the suspects as the men who kidnapped him last June 26 at 11 p. m., when he was putting up his car in a Bonair st., garage.

Gay said the two men abducted him, locked him in the trunk of his own car and drove him around. He told police he believes the pair staged a robbery while he was locked in the rear of the car. Gay said he was left in the car in Gilman st., Somerville, and later smashed his way out of the trunk.

Several cab drivers who appeared to view the suspects reported thteir cabs had been hired qin Somerville and that they later had been robbed. None of the cab drivers, however, was able to identify the suspects.

Because Somerville appeared to be the center of operations of the two men during June, they were grilled in the Dowd shooting, and Somerville Inspectors John H. O'Brien and Joseph Fedelle informed Boston police they would bring witnesses to the Charlestown station to view them.

One holdup victim who confronted the suspects in the lineup was attractive Miss Dorothy Novack, 25, of Pasadena rd., Dorchester. She is the daughter of the owner of Western Coal Co. in Westwood st., Dorchester, which was held up last month.

Although Miss Novack was unable to state definitely that the two men held were the bandits who held up her father's place, the suspects themselves admitted

Rail Strike Ends After 15-Hr. Talk

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22 (INS) — Locomotive engineers today ended their paralyzing strike against the Southern Pacific R. R. system.

Weary conferees, in session for nearly 15 hours, announced that the call has gone out for the engineers to return to work. They struck at 10 p. m (EDT) yesterday, halting operation of 150 passenger and 1000 freight trains in seven Western and Southwestern States.

P. O. Peterson, general chairman of the Independent Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, said that the "strike has been postponed indefinitely."

J. W. Corbett, Southern Pacific's general manager, predicted that trains would be running on the line's 8000-mile system within three or four hours, and that normal service can be restored during the day.

The 3500 engineers struck to enforce 20 demands for changes in operating regulations. Company and union officials disclosed that 15 of these demands were "disposed of" in the marathon peace meeting.

The other five, including the all-important union demand for an increase in minimum wages, were listed as "withdrawn."

In its wage demand the union asked for a minimum daily salary of $12.95, compared with the current $10.02.

Gives Suffering Mother Fatal Pills

READING, Pa., July 22 (AP)—A 47-year-old woman has admitted she gave her invalid 71-year-old mother a fatal dose of sleeping tablets to end her suffering.

Ella M. Haug was found semi-conscious beside the body of her mother, Mrs. Katie Latshaw, yesterday.

"When she became cold, I took my 12 tablets because I knew she was resting," Miss Haug was quoted from a hospital bed.

"Do you know your mother is dead?" the woman was asked.

"Don't use that word—she's just resting," Miss Haug replied.

ITALY GETS U. S. SURPLUS

ROME, July 22 (AP)—An accord providing for the transfer to the Italian government of all U. S. "available surplus war property in Italy" was signed by U. S. and Italian representatives.

2 Ex-Reds to Reveal 5th Column in U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—Men who broke with the Russian and Yugoslav governments gave the House committee on un-American activities a hand today in its hunt for evidence of Red Fifth Column operations in this country. Key witnesses as the committee worked its way deeper into an investigation of Communist activities were Victor Kravchanko and Dr. Mladen Giunio-Zerkin.

Billed for a morning hearing, Kravchenko is a former Russian army officer and official of the Soviet Purchasing Commission in New York. He renounced Communism and told why in a book, "I Chose Freedom."

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R.) of New Jersey told reporters Kravchenko would deal primarily with Soviet espionage.

Dr. Giunio-Zerkin, with a similar background, was ticketed for an afternoon hearing. He was a Yougoslav Army officer and formerly was on the staff of the Yugoslav embassy in London.

Now living in Canada, he already has appeared before the committee at a secret meeting. Thomas said he would go publicly and more deeply into charges that the Tito government of Yugoslavia is running an active Fifth Column in the United States, operating principally among persons of Slavic descent.

The committee is holding weeklong hearings on various phases of Communist activity.

It got a general summary yesterday from Walter S. Steele, chairman of the national security committee of the American Coalition of Patriotic, Civic and Fraternal Societies.

Just before he finished, the committee requested, and Steele agreed to provide, his records on the New Republic magazine edited by Henry A. Wallace.

Questioned by Rep. Mundt, (R.) of South Dakota, Steele said the magazine is 98 per cent foreign financed.

In New York, Michael Straight, publisher of the New Republic, termed this one of the "stale charges which have been brought up repeatedly and which have been repeatedly disapproved."

Steele also testified that:

Wallace is a member and spokesman of the Progressive Citizens of America. He said this organization grew out of realignment of "political Red fronts" immediately after the Communist party's national committee called early in 1946 for a "coalition of left wing elements into a third party."

"Communists co-operate wholeheartedly in keeping the Progressive Citiens of America in the limelight," Steele said.

"Henry Wallace appears to be its mouthpiece. The Political Action Committee of the CIO likewise co-operates with Progressive Citizens."

In the radio field, Steele listed Robert St. John, Selden Menefee and Frank Kingdom as what he called "Red frontiers" who have gone off the air as commentators for one reason or another. In the same class, but still broadcasting, he said, are Sidney Rogers and Norman Corwin.

MODEST NUDISTS

STOCKHOLM, N. J., July 22 (INS)—Officials of the 220-acre nudist camp at Rock Lodge let out with a loud complaint to State Police today.

They charged low-flying airplanes apparently are carrying aerial "Peeping Toms," and that over the week-end two monoplanes sent 400 sunbathers scurrying for cover.

Police promised to investigate.

Wedemeyer Begins Study Of Chinese Civil War

NANKING, July 22 (AP)—China's military situation came under the close scrutiny today of Lt.-Gen. Wedemeyer, whose survey for President Truman likely will determine U. S. policy toward China in her civil war with the Communists. Wedemeyer held informal conferences at the American embassy soon after his arrival, and tomorrow he will talk with Chiang Kai-shek and other high officials.

Banks to Cash GI Bonds, If Truman Signs Bill

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—The Treasury, in order to be ready when and if President Truman signs the bill permitting veterans to cash their terminal leave bonds, is drafting regulations to let banks do the job.

The nations 15,000 banks would cash the bonds in the same manner as they handle government savings bonds. The measure to permit cashing of more than $1,-000,000,00 bonds after Sept. 1 cleared Congress Saturday night.

Dutch Seize Key Port, Storm City

BATAVIA, July 22 (INS)—Dutch troops today went ashore at Probolingo an important port and fighting is under way in the town.

Oeraran, a small town south of Semarang, was also attacked by Dutch troops.

The Indonesians launched a counter-attack on the western sector of the Semarang front. One Dutch plane was said to have been shot down at Pandean near Malang.

Indonesian Premier Sjarifoedin, in a broadcast, appealed to the world, and particularly friends in Australia, to increase efforts toward preventing further bloodshed.

Heavy fighting also spread to western Sumatra today.

The Dutch announced their military and amphibious forces—including marines who staged a twin-phased landing in eastern Java—reached all their immediate objectives and exceeded many. The Indonesian Republican headquarters confirmed these statements.

A Republican communique claimed Indonesian mortar batteries engaged two Dutch warships off Merak in western Java. Four direct hits were said to have been scored on one of the vessels.

Premier U Tin Tut Accuses U Saw

LONDON, July 22 (AP)—U Tin Tut, Burmese minister without portfolio, said today there was circumstantial evidence connecting former Premier U Saw with the assassination last Saturday of seven leaders of the Burma executive council.

U Saw was under British arrest from 1941 to 1946, charged with secretly negotiating with the Japanese after he failed to exact a promise from Winston Churchill of dominion status. He was injured last September when several pistol shots were fired through the windshield of his car.

He now is in jail again having been arrested soon after the recent slaying.

Superforts From Tokyo To Join Air Day Fete

TOKYO, July 22 (INS)—Eight superforts will leave Tokyo in time to reach Washington, D. C. by noon on Air Force Day, Aug. 1.

The big bombers, now completing a month's training mission in Japan, wil fly the Great Circle route with a stopover at Anchorage, Alaska.

DUTCH ADVANCE—Twin drives by Dutch forces, which landed on Java's east coast, advanced some 30 miles inland in the battle against Indonesian forces and heavy fighting was reported in (A) western Sumatra (see insert map). A town (B) west of Bandoeng was occupied by the Dutch, and two key points on rail line, between Batavia and Jogjakarta, were reported seized.

Baby Dies in Crash Of Stork Ambulance

An East Boston mother's ambulance race with the stork early this morning had a tragic climax when an automobile crashed into the ambulance, hurling her from her litter and causing the death of the unborn child. The mother, Mrs. Louise Jeffries, 25, of Chelsea st., lost her baby only seconds after being carried through the hospital's emergency entrance.

Cab Hits Truck; Driver, Girl Hurt

A cab driver and his girl passenger were injured today when their taxi struck a parked ice truck in Commercial st., North End.

Jane Fagone, 17, of Tileston st., West End, the passenger, was pulled from the wrecked cab by passers-by and rushed to City Hospital. Doctors found she had suffered a possible brain concussion and face lacerations.

Joseph Manzelli, 32, of Grove st., West End, the taxi driver, was held at the same hospital for treatment for a badly cut tongue.

The crash occurred at Broadway and Albany sts., South End, when a car police said was operated by Alfred P. Sieklucki of Hartford, Ct., and registered to Helen Robinson of the Fenway, struck the ambulance.

As Mrs. Jefferies was thrown to the floor, a male nurse caring for her, Andrew Beattie of Worcester sq. and the hospital staff, was hurled against her.

The ambulance driver, William M. Murray, told police he had no chance to turn out or otherwise avert the collision.

He summoned another ambulance from the hospital, Mrs. Jeffries was transferred and the race was continued.

Its sorry ending was not reported to Mrs. Jeffries' husband until after 8 o'clock this morning. He had been working on a night shift when the emergency arose.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Jeffries was not in a critical condition.

ARRESTED—George T. Lee, 18 (above), of Oconto, Wis., wanted in connection with the mutilation slaying of Charles Mulholland, 8, in Lincoln, Neb., was on his way to that city today following his arrest in Des Moines after a nation-wide search.

BEER TO BARTELL

DENVER, July 22 (AP)—Robert C. Beers and his wife Laura, saying they "strongly disapprove of the drinking of alcoholic beverages," petitioned district court yesterday for permission to change their name to Bartell.

Their attorney's petition said the Beers "are from time to time engaged in the public advocation of temperance and the abstinence from the drinking of alcoholic beverages, and their present names are a subject of ridicule and unpleasantness."

Rain Boon To Wilting N. E. Gardens

City folks merely dug up their raincoats today, but farmers and truck gardeners throughout New England heaved a long sigh of relief for the rains that came last night and were still dropping on parched fields this forenoon.

The weather bureau forecast more showers for tonight and tomorrow and the wind blew steadily though gently from the east.

Typical of the downpour on the South Shore was Hingham's downtown shopping area, which flooded when catchbasins proved inadequate. Railroad tracks at the depot were covered by water, forcing commuters to wade to their trains.

Weymouth's Jackson sq. was awash.

In 12 hours the total rainfall for Boston was 1.38 inches. At Portland, Me., where the rainstorm was hailed as a "glorified thundershower," the rainfall measured almost 1.5 inches with more to come.

Medford Train-Truck Crash Injures Man

Two Medford men escaped serious injury today when their heavy dump truck was struck and demolished by a Medford-bound Boston & Maine railroad train at the Middlesex ave. crossing, Medford. The truck was carried 50 feet along the tracks.

Louis Connetti, 25, of Mystic ave., the truck driver, escaped with a shaking up. His helper, Carmen Pacchetti, 24, of Allen ct., who was on the side of the truck hit by the locomotive, was taken to Malden Hospital.

Doubt Boy, 6, Killed 2 Babies in Hospital

MASSILLON, O., July 22 (AP)—A 6-year-old boy patient's statement that he dropped two infant girls on the floor at City Hospital while playing with them was accepted today by the Massillon police chief as the solution to the babies' mysterious deaths June 6, but the county prosecutor said he doubted the boy's story and would continuing investigating.

Police Chief Stanley W. Switter, considered the mystery solved after little Roger Gue told him he was playing with the infants in a ward and accidentally let them fall.

Roger was a patient at the hospital at the time with a broken right arm encased in a cast.

But Stark County Prosecutor D. Deane McLaughlin declared: "Our investigation continues. The confession reported by two newspaper reporters does not close the case for us.

"I talked with Mr. and Mrs. (Roger) Gue. Both expressed doubt that Roger was telling the truth."

(Earlier in the day Chief Switter said the child's parents were reasonably convinced the story was accurate.)

The babies—Diana Jean Brand, eight weeks, and Rosemary Morton, 10 weeks—were found dying in their cribs of fractured skulls June 6. Almost from the start, Chief Switter has believed their deaths accidental and McLaughlin has stuck to a theory of murder.

Quizzed by James S. Elis, free lance correspondent and private investigator from Pittsburgh, the boy said:

"I was there, playing with the babies, and I dropped them on the floor. I climbed up on the cribs and tried to get them."

Roger's mother also was quoted in the statement as saying:

"Well, we knew right along that Roger wasn't telling the truth. We felt that if we could be alone with him and get the fear out of him we could get the truth out of him.

"I honestly believe now that he has no realization that the children have died. He thinks they are all right."

Insane British Baby-Killer Actor Sought

By THOMAS C. WATSON

LONDON, July 22 (INS) — A fantastic manhunt is under way throughout England today for an insane baby murderer whose unusual abilities as an actor have enabled him to escape detection or arrest.

The slayer is Frederick Lapcien, alias John Allen, 34, who escaped Sunday from the Broadmoor Criminal Lunatic Asylum and has been on the loose since with a wide variety of disguises in his possession.

Lapsien was convicted 10 years ago, found criminally insane and sent to Broadmoor.

During his incarceration he devoted all available time to the art of acting. He perfected an impeccable Oxford accent, studied disguises, and eventually became the leading man in the Asylum's Amateur Dramatic Society.

Particularly adept at impersonating a clergyman, Lapsien became known to other inmates as "the Rev. Mr. Broadmoor." He proved equally adept i nthe role of doctor.

When Lapsien escaped, he took with him the British equivalent $640 and a large suitcase containing disguises, make-up kit and a monocle.

Senate Tackles Housing In Drive to End Session

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON, July 22 (INS)—Senate GOP leaders gave way to the inevitable today and called up Pres. Truman's housing reorganization plan as the next step in a desperate drive for adjournment by Saturday night.

This decision laid aside perhaps permanently for this session, the demand of Sen. Kem (R.) of Missouri for an investigation of Atty.-Gen. Tom Clark's handling of the Missouri election fraud case.

The parliamentary tangle became so acute that the Senate Republican policy committee named a subcommittee to work with Kem on his almost hopeless problem.

One Republican leader said that party chiefs would let nothing but the housing plan and pending appropriation bills stand in the way of adjourning sine die at the end of the week.

Sen. Hatch (D.) of New Mexico demanded in a floor speech Monday night that Congress abandon plans to adjourn Saturday and stay on the job to pass veterans and other major legislation.

Sen. Morse (R.) of Oregon said he agreed with Hatch that Congress should finish the people's business before adjourning.

The housing plan, which the House has rejected, will go into effect unless the Senate also turns it down.

Under the proposal Mr. Truman would group most of the federal housing agencies into a "Housing and Home Finance Agency."

The Senate Banking Committee held that the plan was desirable for sound administration. It has the support of Sen. Taft (R.) of Ohio, the GOP policy chairman.

The House, except for acting on bills still in joint conference committees, virtually had cleaned up its own slate.

The lower chamber passed the anti-poll tax bill in full knowledge that the controversial legislation —always the subject of a southern filibuster—will never get through the Senate this year.

Two major appropriation bills were ready for approval of the Senate appropriation committee today.

They were the deficiency bill, carrying funds for the Greek-Turkish aid program, European relief, and relief for occupied countries, and the War Department civil functions bill, providing flood control and rivers and harbors money.

Two other major measures also were in conference — the Army-Navy unification bill and the independent offices appropriation bill.

Overell Trial Court Startled By Test Blast

SANTA ANA, Cal., July 22 (AP)—A tense, hushed, expectant courtroom was startled as an alarm clock rang, competing a circuit from a storage battery to a detonator wire, and a tiny trail of fire and blue smoke shot into the air at the Overell yacht blast murder trial.

Louise Overell, 18-year-old heiress, and her college sweetheart, George (Bud) Gollum, 21, charged with murdering her parents, smiled as the prosecution late yesterday presented for the jury a demonstration reconstructing how it claims Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Overell's yacht, the Mary E, was dynamited after the elderly couple had been bludgeoned with a hammer or a piece of pipe.

A 12-volt battery, a standard make household alarm clock and the detonator wire were on a counsel table, directly in front of the jury, while five minutes ticked away. As the clock's minute hand corresponded with the alarm hand, a bell rang and the detonator cap set off its fiery charge.

The demonstration proved, Prosecutor Eugene D. Williams contended, that a circuit could be completed from a battery to a charge of dynamite.

One of the jurors, Mrs. Uvon Putnam, 29, who a month ago reported she had been slapped and threatened by an unidentified man who invaded her apartment, was excused from further service at her request yesterday. She was succeeded by Mrs. Ida Fischer of Anaheim, one of the alternates selected at the outset of the trial.

The prosecution disclosed that Edward Louis Davis, sought for months and finally located two weeks ago in Wheeling, W. Va., and returned to Los Angeles, will not be used as a witness. Special Investigator James H. Mulvey said the U. S. attorney's office in Los Angeles had been notified that Davis no longer is wanted as a witness in the trial.

Report British Seize 2 More Jewish Ships

By BLENN FELLER

JERUSALEM, July 22 (INS)—Unconfirmed reports that two more immigrant ships, carrying 4000 uncertified Jews, were intercepted off the Palestine coast added fuel today to the Jewish community's long-smouldering resentment against the British.

The usual tension was heightened by word that the 4554 persons seized over the week-end, when the Exodus of 1947 was captured in a sea battle, have been sent back to France, from where they migrated to the Holy Land.

Fears were expressed a fresh wave of extremist action may be the prelude to a stepped-up campaign by unified elements of the Jewish underground—including not only the militant Stern gang and Irgun Zvai Leumi, but also the relatively-moderate Haganah or "Jewish Defense Army."

Dope Case Girl Sent Home With Mother

On condition that she go home to Chicago with her mother, Paricia Efferding, 17-year-old blonde runaway, was placed on probation by Judge Elijah Adlow in Municipal Court today after she hadpleaded guilty to a morals charge and to being present where narcotics were found. She left the courtroom with her mother, Eleanor, a nurse.

Three men who were arrested with Patricia in a police raid on a downtown Boston hotel room also were in court today. Two, Nathan Lewis of Ne w York, and Winifred Reid, son of a prominent Louisana surgeon, were acquitted on charges of being present where narcotics were found. The third man, Bernard M. Comer, of Philadelphia, was found guilty of adultery and of unlawful possession of marijuana cigarets and drugs.

Comer was given suspended sentences of three months of each charge, and, like Patricia, placed on probation on condition that he leave the city. The Efferding girl also was given suspended sentences of three months on each charge.

Lt. James V. Crowley said the three men defendants all were musicians. Reid and Lewis asserted they had been in the hotel room only a few minutes before police arrived.

Atty. Samuel H. Cohen, who represented Comer, asked that his client be found not guilty on the morals charge. Comer has a wife in California.

"Young people don't hire hotel rooms just to go up and rest," Judge Adlow remarked in finding Comer guilty on the adultery charge. Then, turning to Lt. Crowley, he asked:

"Why do musicians use marijuana?"

"It peps up their band," the police official answered.

"I've been listening to some recordings lately," Judge Adlow said. "I think they need more than that to pep them up."

TALK CHEAP?

YONKERS, N. Y., July 22 (AP)—Patrolman Frank Miller returned to duty minus $250—because he offered free advice.

Miller was in a neighborhood tavern while on duty recently when a man approached him and told him he needed money to meet a monetary obligation.

Miller's advice: stick up a bank.

The conversation was overheard and reported to Miller's superiors. Miller was tried on charges and pleaded guilty, at the departmental trial, although he said he offered the advice in jest. He was fined 29 days' pay.

Potatoes, Tomatoes Periled By 'Sticky Weather' Blight

"Sticky" weather that returned to New England today brought farmers fears of a blight to tomato and potato crops. Rain contributed to the "unusually high" humidity, the Boston district forecaster said, and aided breeding of a late blight fungus first reported in Rhode Island.

The fungus, which caused thousands of dollars' damage to potatoes and tomatoes in New England last year, has not reached Massachusetts yet, the State College Experimental Station at Waltham reported but Massachusetts and growing areas in the other five states are on the alert for it.

In Rhode Island State College, pathologist, Dr. Frank L. Howard told the Associated Press the destructive organism thrives on warm humid days and cool nights, which the Boston forecaster said are in prospect for at least another 48 hours.

Present humidity is higher than that of the recent 11-day stretch because of lower temperatures and the showers, bringing rain which evaporates into the air, the forecaster explained.

The Massachusetts experimental station reported that spraying with Bordeaux mixture is the best defense against the blight fungus which destroyed hundreds of acres of the plants in Massachusetts last year.

Pawn in Custody Battle, Girl of 4 Awaits Decision

Joan Marie Harris, 4, innocent pawn in a legal battle being waged between her parents for her custody, was also losing out on a summer vacation in Maine, as hearing on the case resumed today in Suffolk Superior Court before Judge Charles C. Cabot.

The hearing is on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus brought by Mrs. Helen Murphy Brooks that would give her custody of two children by a former marriage, Joan Marie and Joan's brother, Robert Duncan Harris, 6.

Respondents in the case are Col. Murray D. Harris, USA, of Waban, now on duty in Washington, D. C.; his sister, Mrs. Imogene Harris Swinton, and the latter's husband, Dr. Neil H. Swinton, also of Waban. Mrs. Edna Harris of Waban, former mother-in-law of Brooks, was eliminated as a respondent by agreement of counsel.

Before the case was recessed until today, counsel for the mother, informed Judge Cabot that Joan is now staying with a Newton family, while the aunt and uncle, who currently have custody of the two children, are vacationing in Maine and have the boy with them.

Judge Cabot was also informed by counsel that a New York Supreme Court justice had vacated an order giving temporary custody of the children to the mother.

Mrs. Brooks, who divorced Col. Harris in Florida last May, asked for their custody when the Army officer filed his own divorce action in the New York court. The order for temporary custody was issued, with Col. Harris under decree to deliver the children to the wife's lawyer by July 15.

The court was told that the children have been in the custody of Harris' sister, Mrs. Swinton.

Mrs. Brooks charges that her ex-husband has failed to turn over the children to her as ordered, and has also said he would not obey the order.

Counsel for Harris and the Swintons disclosed that the order had not been served until July 15, and that a five-day period for compliance expired Sunday. Counsel told the court the New York judge had directed a stay of the order and had set Thursday, July 24, for a rehearing of the entire case.

Sheriff McElroy Funeral Friday

Funeral services for Joseph M. McElroy, 55, sheriff of Middlesex County since 1934, will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Storey Chapel of the Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge.

The body will lie at the Watson Funeral Home, 11 Magazine st., until Friday morning. Visiting hours are 2 to 5 and 7 to 10 p. m. Wednesday and Thursday.

His wife, Mrs. Elazabeth McElroy and their daughter, Beverly A. McElroy were at the shiriff's bedside at the time of his death.

McElroy had been deputy sheriff and deputy master of the Middlesex House of Correction before his election to the post of sheriff in 1934.

He served with the Yankee Division during World War I and was a past commander of the Russell E. Hoyt Post, VFW.

Foxboro Man's Body Sought in N. H. River

STRATHAM, N. H., July 22 (AP)—Police continued to drag Squamscott river today for the body of Arthur L. Truelson of Foxboro, Mass., believed drowned yesterday near his Riverside camp.

Draggers recovered last night, in about 15 feet of water, an outboard motor which police said Truelson had carried out on a wharf to attach to a boat. Attracted to the wharf by a cry, the family found both man and motor missing.

John Holland Rites Thursday

Funeral services for John Henry Holland of Lake st., Arlington, retired grocer and former Dorchester resident who died last night at his home after a long illness, will be held Thursday from the Crosby Memorial Chapel in Beacon st., Boston, with requiem mass at 9 a. m., in St. Cecilia's Church, Belvidere st., Back Bay, and burial in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery, Arlington.

He is survived by three sons, C. Edward of Belmont, executive city editor of the Boston Daily Record; George of Natick, and Frederick of Dorchester; also two daughters, Mrs. Peter F. Costello of Brighton and Mrs. Edwin Wraga of Arlington.

U. S. Protests Red Oil Equipment Grab

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—The United States has protested Russia's failure to pay for 7000 tons of oil equipment owned by a Romanian subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey and removed from Romania by Soviet forces.

The State Dept. said the property, valued at about $1,000,000 was taken from Romania late in 1944.

Roger Tells How Boys Branded Him With Burning Cigarets After Listening to Radio Thriller

2 Salem Youths Facing Court in Branding of Boy

Two Salem boys, 13 and 14, who enticed a 5-year-old companion into a barn and branded his arms with lighted cigarets, will appear Thursday in juvenile session of Salem District Court, in custody of their parents, to answer charges preferred against them.

In confessing to Police Lt. Thomas A. Gilligan how they dragged Roger Bedard, one of 13 children of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bedard, into the barn and burned him with the lighted cigaret butts, the boys said they were imitating "tough guys" in radio detective thrillers.

They also attempted to make the young victim eat a sandwich, which Lt. Gilligan said was composed of toothpaste, soap and crackers.

The branded boy was reported by Gilligan as being under medical treatment, but apparently recovering. The branding occurred Friday or Saturday, he added.

Parents of the branded boy reported the case to police when it was learned that other boys in the neighborhood planned to give the two 'teen-agers a taste of their own medicine. Mrs. Bedard also reported the affair to Patrolman William Farrell, route officer, who picked up the accused boys.

Landlords Warned of Court Action

Landlords in Boston who have been charged with scaring old-age pensioners into signing leases with 15 per cent rent increases, were warned today by William F. Riley, rent control director for eastern Massachusetts, that such attempts are criminal and can be prosecuted in the courts.

Riley said several such complaints had been brought to his attention by various charitable bureaus in the city, which received the original complaints from their beneficiaries.

"Tenants who are coerced into paying rent increases, who are forced to sign leases, or threatened or badgered into doing so, have redress in the courts, where they can seek treble damages and costs," Riley declared.

He also disclosed that the Office of Rent Control had received duplicates of only approximately 3500 leases, less than one-half of 1 per cent of the total in the eastern Massachusetts area.

The majority of complaints received by the ORC within the past few days have been from permanent residents of hotels, Riley said. Rents for such residents were decontrolled July 1. The result has been that rent increases for permanent guests have ranged from as low as 3 per cent up to 200 per cent in Greater Boston.

Charles A. Coyle, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Hotel Ass'n, said it was inevitable that rents would increase as soon as controls were lifted, pointing out that hotel payrolls today were double what they were in 1942, when such controls became effective.

The hotels have until July 31 to file for decontrol. Only about half of the 160 hotels in the eastern area, have filed so far, Riley stated.

Pair Suspects in Killing

the crime. Dorothy told police they fled with between $600 and $700. The suspects, however, insisted they got away with only about $70.

One cab driver holdup victim, Joseph Harrington of Dorchester, told police his stolen wallet was sent to him—empty—in the mail. But he added he had to pay an overdue postage charge of five cents to get it back.

With the arerst of the suspected pair, police also seized an arsenal which they believe the two used in their career of crime. The two men weer arrested separately with the capture of the second man coming early today after police maintained a 10-hour vigil.

Special officers had lain in wait at both entrances to a Magnolia st., Dorchester, home until the suspect entered and went to his room. But police had already been in the room and emptied of a machine gun, two automatic pistols, two knives and more than 200 rounds of amunition.

The suspect was felled before he could make a move and speedily taken to the Charlestown police station to be locked up with the alleged confederate—arrested earlier and finally influenced to "sing."

The first break in the case came when Charlestown police discovered a stolen machine parked in a vacant lot in Wapping st., near the Charlestown Navy Yard.

They arrested a 26-year-old Brockton iceman after a two-hour wait. They found in his pockets a dirk knife and the pocketbook of George R. Busby, 36, who two weeks ago was slugged by two men and robbed of $600 during a holdup at a Dorchester ave., Dorchester, liquor store.

Busby was summoned and identified the suspect as one of the two holdup men.

It was then, after hours of questioning, that the Brockton man decided he wanted to talk. He declared he and his pal had a Dorchester room, where they met to plan holdups and split their loot.

Special Officers John Finnerty and James Concannon of Charlestown and Special Officers Francis Costello and Lawrence Daley of the Dudley st. station raided the room, discovering the arsenal as well as maps of Boston and its streets.

After warning other occupants in the house to make no move, Finnerty and Concannon took up quarters in a house across the street, and Costello and Daley took over a post in the rear. They rushed in after the Dorchester suspect had entered and subdued him.

Jap Doctors for Birth Control

TOKYO, July 22 (AP)—A group of Japanese doctors—acting on Margaret Sanger's proposal for a 10-year moratorium on births in the world's most overpopulated countries—conducted Japan's first public birth control clinic today.

The physicians discussed the social, cultural and medical aspects of birth control and then distributed literature to a large number of women in the audience.

"Birth control," explained Dr. Fumiko Y. Amano, "means health for a mother's children, it means economic security and a happy family life. In fact, it means the rehabilitation and establishment of true democracy in Japan."

Residents of the Huron ave.-Fayerweather st., district of Cambridge were rudely awakened shortly before 3 o'clock this morning by the blowing of an automobile horn.

Sleepy residents clad in their night clothing hung out windows seeking relief from the annoyance while some ventured to the street to check the nuisance.

Cambridge police finally arrived by prowl car and ripped the wires from the locked vehicle.

Find Woman, 78, In Reading Woods

Sought by a posse of more than 100 police, firemen and volunteers hours after she had failed to return home from a blueberrying trip, Mrs. Harriet L. Buckminster, 78, of Sanborn lane, Reading, was found alive and well early today in the town forest.

It took the searchers nearly two hours to carry her out of the dense woods in which she had become lost.

Near exhaustion, but otherwise unharmed, she told officials she lost her way just before darkness set in and had wandered about in the forest trying to discover a way out.

Tramp Admits Mutilation Murder of 8-Year-Old Boy

LINCOLN, Neb., July 22 (AP)—County Atty. Frederick Wagener said George Thomas Lee has admitted mutilation slaying of 8-year-old Charles Mulholland, the 18-year-old Oconto, Wis., youth relating he choked the boy July 14, then wrapped a necktie around the boy's neck.

First degree murder charges have been filed here against Lee, returned here from Des Moines, Ia., where he was arrested in a Salvation Army hotel.

The stripped and mutilated body of the Mulholland boy was found in a hayloft here July 15, a block from the Salvation Army Citadel, where he and his mother, evicted from their home, had been staying.

Wagener said Lee related the boy was with him when he was given a change of clothing at the citadel and followed him to the barn.

Fin Com Stands On Hub Tax Blast

The Boston finance commission today stuck to its charge that the city's board of assessors had reached "into the bag of tricks" in jumping commercial and industrial assessments $92,000,000 to restrain the tax rate unrealistically.

"The commission is content to let the facts speak for themselves. We stand by our statement. The facts and figures are easily obtainable," said Robert E. Cunniff, finance commission secretary, following a four-page criticism issue last night by Peter J. Allen, chairman of the board of assessors.

Allen, charging the finance commission's position was prejudiced, insisted increases in assessed valuations for 1946 and 1947 averaged less than 3 per cent of the total annual valuation and was far less than increases in other leading cities of the nation.

Shaw Raps BBC Bullfight Program

LONDON, July 22 (AP)—George Bernard Shaw asked today for a "public inquiry into the mental condition of the BBC" because it broadcast a bullfight on a "highbrow" program.

The bearded patriarch of British letters, writing to the editor of the Daily Telegraph, said that "in my early days, England was proud of having abolished bear baiting and all such savageries, and made bullfighting a national reproach to Spain. But now!"

The practice of broadcasting boxing matches, he said, could not be raised as a defense, because boxers "voluntarily face" their opponents and are "more liberally paid . . . than a parson."

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Home Camp Open For JVA Members

Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday are full of activities and excitement for all members of the Boys' Clubs of Boston, including hundreds of Junior Victory Army members, as those are the days the "Stay at Home Camp" is open.

For boys who cannot afford to go to a real camp and for members who wish to prepare for camps at Duxbury or Brewster, the "Stay at Home Camp" is the place.

The camping season is split into five two week periods with 105 boys a day attending. They range from 6 to 14 yrs.

Wednesdays and Fridays they leave the club for the day and take part in hikes, nature lore, commercial tours, woodcraft, soft ball, games, stunts, boating trips, signalling, camp fires and first aid.

The "Stay at Home Camp" will provide an excellent opportunity for a boy to make of his leisure time during the summer vacation. Camping activities are under supervision of Arthur T. Burger, executive director.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and address to the Junior Victory Army, P. O. Box 228, Boston Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose, a. 10-cent. coin, well-wrapped in your letter.

Read the next JVA story in Wednesday's Daily Record.

Firemen Battle Flames Which Claimed 3 Lives

MINOT, N. D., July 22 (AP)—Firemen continued fighting oil-fed flames early today after a spectacular fire raced through four square blocks of the Minot business district to claim three lives and destroy nine business establishments.

There was no estimate of the damage in the blaze, touched off by an explosion of unknown origin in a bulk gasoline station.

IDENTICAL TWINS

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—Peter J. Donahue and Joseph Murphy, who married twin sisters and share a double house in Brooklyn, can start stringing up matching clothes lines.

Their wives gave birth to their first children Saturday at a Brooklyn hospital, attended by the same doctor who delivered the mothers 33 years ago.

"We all did very nicely," said Dr. Henry Aronson.

$500,000 COAST FIRE

PENDLETON, Ore., July 22 (AP)—Damage was estimated at more than $500,000 today after flames destroyed the Western Milling Co. flour mill and warehouse, set fire to other buildings and for two hours threatened to sweep into the business section.

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS
Head of the Vegetable Gardening Department, Norfolk County Agricultural School

Q—The soil in our garden packs so that most crops do not grow well. What can we do in the fall to improve it?

A—Your soil must have considerable clay in it. The best way to improve these conditions is to add course, organic matter and lime, if it is acid.

Q—I would like to grow a few quinces. Do the trees take much room?

A—Quince trees grow slowly, but should produce in 4 or 5 years. They grow 12 to 15 feet high, so do not need much space.

Q—Our cucumbers are planted along the edge of the garden. Can they be allowed to run into the grass?

A—Cucumbers will grow well under these conditions, provided they are on fertile soil. Do not try this with squash.

Q—Is hoeing necessary if no weeds are present?

A—While the main reason for hoeing is to control weeds, it may be well to rake over the soil just enough to break the crust once in awhile, so rain water can get in.

Q—Our garden is infested with a red leathery weed that spreads all over the ground. We hoe it off, but it still lives. How can we get rid of it?

A—This weed is Purslane, a bad summer visitor in all gardens. When small, they can be killed. Large plants should be pulled and carried out before they produce seed.

Q—Will shade improve the quality of lettuce?

A—Some gardeners feel that partial shade improves the quality. Keep in mind that lettuce does need some sun to have good food value.

GIRLS! WOMEN! WHO FEEL NERVOUS WEAK, CRANKY 'EVERY MONTH'

Are you troubled by distress of female functional monthly disturbances? Does this make you suffer from pain, feel so nervous, cranky, restless, weak, a bit moody—at such times? Then so try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms!

In a recent medical test Pinkham's Compound proved remarkably helpful to women troubled this way. Taken regularly—Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such distress. It also has what Doctors call a stomachic tonic effect.

Bayley Predicted As Shattuck Rival

City Councilor James C. Bayley, Jr., has announced he will not try for a third term and political observers perdicted today that he will seek the post of State Rep. Henry L. Shattuck, the Back Bay's Republican leader.

Shattuck declined to comment on his plans of seeking to return again to the legislature next year, but Bayley said he would welcome the opportunity "to serve his district once more in another public office."

Fete Aids Jordan Hospital

PLYMOUTH BOY SCOUTS have their "good deed" for Friday mapped out in advance. They will tour surrounding towns bright and early to place arrows directing the way to the annual Jordan Hospital Bazaar on Railroad Green in the historic town of the Pilgrims.

The fair is run by Jordan Hospital Club, 350 women who raise several thousand dollars a year to help provide new equipment for the hospital.

"Grandmother Attic" is the description of the rummage table presided over by Mrs. Herbert Ryder and Marshfield members of the club. Mrs. John Magee is chairman of the antiques booth which is being advertised on the South Shore on a striking poster painted by Nancy Bartlett of Plymouth, an art school student.

Mrs. Carl J. Peterson is general chairman of the event which will have all the popular features of a summer fair. Others working for the event include Mrs. Philip Barnes, Mrs. Fiske Mabbett, Mrs. Harold Sears, Mrs. Harold Damon, Mrs. Martin McCarthy, Mrs. Deane Eldridge, Mrs. Harry White, Mrs. Arthur Pyle, Mrs. Leroy Williams, Mrs. John Packard and many more.

CANDLELIGHT and pink roses decorated Mt. Vernon Church Chapel for the marriage last evening of Mrs. Mabel Morgan Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Morgan of Wolfeboro, N. H., to Arnold George Stephens of Boston. Rev. Theodore C. Schoonmaker officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by John Oxley of Boston and attended by her daughter, Mrs. Frank Isabelle (Virginia Reynolds) of Fall River. Arthur L. Stephens of Boston was best man. The bride wore a white gabardine suit and corsage of gardenias. Her daughter wore a blue silk suit and corsage of pink camellias.

Mrs. Stephens is prominent in the hotel business in Boston and Florida and during the war served as a volunteer at Boston hospitals. Mr. Stephens is a graduate of Lowell Textile Institute, 1929, and served in the Army Air Force in Europe.

After a honeymoon trip to Washington the couple will live on Beacon st.

PLYMOUTH YACHT CLUB was almost deserted Sunday when most of the skippers and crew sailed to Duxbury for a series of informal races. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Meyer had guests aboard their cruiser Gemini to spectate and flying the Plymouth burgee in the race were their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meyer on Orion, the Arthur A. Bubbins family with debutante daughter Barbara Jane, Mrs. Ralph Hornblower, whose crew included her daughter Martha, and Susan Hedges with her sister Lucia.

Mrs. L. F. Niles

With whistles blowing and much splashing and shouting the youngsters at Eel River Beach Club were contestants in a swimming meet over the week-end. Cathie Hurxthal, Kate Niles, Kate Wells and Susan Richmond were among the youthful diving stars and the spectators included their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louville Niles, Mr. and Mrs. George Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richmond and Dr. and Mrs. Lewis Hurxthal.

ROUND AND ABOUT: Mr. and Mrs. Morris F. LaCroix of Chestnut Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow Crocker of Fitchburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Hovey, Jr., and son Sumner of Swampscott have been golfing at Poland Spring, Me., where other guests recently were Judge and Mrs. Henry T. Lummus of Swampscott who were en route to the White Mountains, the Misses Margaret and Harriet Sherborne of Boston who were luncheon guests the other day of Mr. Samuel Williams and his sister, Mrs. Fred D. Allen of Newton Center, at Poland Spring House.

Philip Shows Ship To Princess Bess

GREENOCK, Scotland, July 22 (AP)—Lt. Philip Mounbatten of the Royal Navy showed his fiancee, Princess Elizabeth, all about warships today.

With King George, Queen Elizabeth, Princess Margaret Rose and Prime Minister and Mrs. Attlee, they visited Britain's home fleet in the firth of Clyde.

Walking behind the others the young couple boarded the battleship Duke of York, and Mounthatten pointed out and explained sundry items of equipment.

Hub to Fence Charles At Danger Sector

A new six-foot-high wire fence along the shore of the Charles river basin, where five youngsters have been drowned in recent weeks, will be erected within 10 days, it was disclosed today by a spokesman for the contractors, P. J. Dinn Co.

Authorization was given by Temporary Mayor John B. Hynes after it was pointed out that a similar fence had cut drownings at a Neponset river beach.

Sunday Advertiser Article Exposes Charity Racketeers

One of the country's worst rackets is the fake charity campaign. Countless unsuspecting Americans have fallen victim to the charity hoax.

In "Beggars in Mink," next Sunday's American Weekly, magazine issued with the Boston Sunday Advertiser, will reveal how racketeers masquerade as volunteers for seemingly worthy charities and then pocket the money contributed.

The article lists some helpful tips by which you can guard against these swindlers.

Another valuable American article Sunday will be "Fat from Psychic Hunger" by G. B. Lal, noted science writer, who shows how that abnormal craving for food may be caused by emotional tension.

AN ESSENTIAL SAFEGUARD

THE RULES COMMITTEE of the House of Representatives, through its action blocking the Navy's purchase of the Del Monte Hotel at Monterey, Cal., has apparently ended all prospects for the proposed post-graduate school at least during the present session of Congress, and probably permanently.

Since the Navy's option to buy the hotel expires August 1, the project seems to be definitely scuttled.

If this has the effect of turning the attention of Congress, either now or later, back to the original and REAL officer-training program which the Hearst newspapers have so long advocated—providing for completely new and entirely adequate Army and Navy academies on the Pacific Coast—the committee's action may prove to be good news rather than bad.

THE POST-GRADUATE SCHOOL CONTEMPLATED BY THE NAVY, WHETHER AT DEL MONTE OR ELSEWHERE, WOULD UNDOUBTEDLY SERVE A MERITORIOUS PURPOSE.

BUT IT WAS NOT A PROPER SUBSTITUTE FOR THE TRAINING FACILITIES THE NAVY REALLY NEEDS, AND WHICH ONLY A PACIFIC COAST ACADEMY SUPPLEMENTING THE ANNAPOLIS INSTITUTION BUT WHOLLY INDEPENDENT OF IT COULD PROVIDE.

In fact, it is suspected that some of the tradition-bound naval authorities had such zeal for the old Annapolis school ties that they offered the post-graduate project more as a diversion than anything else.

THE NAVY should have learned from the recent war, if it learned nothing else that the Annapolis Academy cannot produce enough officers for the permanent naval establishment even in peace time, and that it is hopelessly inadequate and obsolete for the training of the competent officers a future war would require.

The Navy was compelled by the last war to set up temporary and makeshift officer training centers, at colleges and universities throughout the country and especially on the West Coast, in order to man its ships and stations.

Otherwise, the Navy would have been under the same handicap in trying to conduct a war as it was in trying to function efficiently before the war—the handicap of too few officers, and those few lacking the skill and experience essential in modern warfare.

For that matter, the Army entered the last war under the same handicap.

It had to offset it in the same manner—with hurried and loose arrangements.

Both the Army and the Navy should therefore understand the vital necessity for PERMANENT officer-training facilities on the Pacific Coast, augmenting the West Point and Annapolis Academies.

NEITHER West Point nor Annapolis has ever been adequate for the minimum necessities of national defense.

Neither of these venerable institutions CAN EVER BE ADEQUATE.

Both are as big as they ever will be. They have limitations in aviation and all the phases of mechanized and scientific warfare that constitute serious obstacles to the armed forces.

And in the event of war, their inadequacies would become serious menaces to national security.

The Pacific Coast offers illimitable and inexhaustible facilities for military and naval training. Consequently their permanent utilization should be provided for while the country is at peace—without waiting for their hurried and makeshift utilization in a future war which might come not only suddenly but devastatingly and disastrously.

Congress should take up the matter of the proposed and vitally necessary West Coast Army and Navy academies without more delay or diversion.

And with the full support of all our New England Senators and Representatives, it should authorize the establishment of these essential academies without further evasion of the real issue.

Requesting songs on the radio is not one of my regular pastimes. But I may call up some station tonight and ask that they play "My Buddy" in memory of Brooklyn's greatest writer of popular songs, Walter Donaldson, who recently passed on. Walter was a brilliant fellow. His songs did a lot to make the business of living a little easier for millions of his fellow men and women.

ASIDES: Have just received a little note from Gail Patrick, the Birmingham beauty. Gail uses red ink. Makes her communication look very snappy . . . A Philadelphian informs me J. S. Biesenkamp has just graduated from the Temple University School of Medicine at the age of 23. He asks: "Is Dr. Biesenkamp America's youngest M. D.?"

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—What major league twirler pitched and won a double-header after he was 50 years of age? A—No major leaguer ever did that. However, the former major league pitcher "Iron Man" Joe McGinnity, when 55 years of age, pitched and won a double-header for the Dubuque, Iowa, team. Q—In the first film version of "Sally, Irene and Mary," what girls played the three title roles? A—Joan Crawford played Irene, Sally O'Neil played Sally, but as to who played Mary you have me, I think it was Mary Brian. Q—Will you admit the Dalmatian is the smartest of all dogs? A—Certainly not, sir. The Australian shepherd dog is the smartest. However, Dalmatians must be pretty smart or they wouldnt use them for "firehouse dogs" as they do in New York City.

IS IT LOVE? Our Horses & Women and Mules & Men experts are confronted with an extremely baffling problem. They were still arguing it up to a late hour last night. At 11 p. m., the Horse experts were so wrapped up in the discussion they hadn't even started reading their racing forms. The problem, presented by a Chicago subscriber is as follows: "How about a Gemini woman marrying a Gemini man? I am romantic—he is not. I am selfish. He is generous. One day I love him. The next day I hate him. One day he is attentive. The next day he is indifferent. I dance—he doesn't. I bowl—he doesn't. I am aggressive—he is shy. We are both red-heads. We fight like mad. We miss each other terribly when at odds. Could this possibly be love?"

CLEVER WAITRESS: A Detroiter claims Phyllis McGillis, popular waitress of the motor city, can carry 13 cups of coffee at the same time, without the aid of a tray or any other utensil. That is in her hands. That I would like to see. And until I see it, or a photograph of it I won't believe it.

SUSPENDED: Despite threats of being put out of the Young Old-Timers Ass'n for not remembering the hit song of "Mlle. Modiste" and other recent lapses of memory I am still a member of the group. Remember, I have been definitely suspended from the Belmont Park Cigar Commissioners Ass'n. The charge is that I was seen by five reliable witnesses smoking a cigar with a holder, in direct violation of the organization's rules. They had me there. What could I say after I said I was sorry?

BRIEFLY: Now a Los Angeles career girl wife turns her pay check over to him weekly, because she considers him as "the head of the house" and he should have complete charge of the family finances . . . The Huntington Bowling Alleys, Boston, has 72 alleys—all in a row. Is it the record number of alleys?

PEGGY'S BRACELET: A contemporary states Peggy Hopkins Joyce has an "unusual bracelet". That she "tactfully suggests" each of her escorts contribute a diamond heart to be attached to said bracelet. That she has five hearts on said bracelet so far. Somehow or other, I have my doubts as to this story. But if true, I would like to know how Peggy words these "tactful suggestions." Seems to me they would require a maximum of tact.

THESE DAYS

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1947, King Features Synd., Inc.

THE BRITISH EMPIRE was the creation of the energy, daring, thrift and organizational capacity of Englishmen, Scotsmen, Irishmen and Welshmen and all their admixtures from the time of Elizabeth to the year 1914. It is probably the most stupendous achievement in history, bringing together in trade and development the greatest aggregation of productive human beings.

George E. Sokolsky

In 1914 Sir Edward Grey, after a lonely night of decision, led his country to war over the sanctity of treaties. England kept her word and lost an empire.

Since 1914, the British have consumed their vast accumulations that centuries had built. They have, in fact, fallen into debt and dependence. Their empire has become a commonwealth, its diadem, India, reaching independence.

Precisely what that means only time will tell. The British are hopeful that India will ultimately become a loyal member of the commonwealth as, for instance, the Union of South Africa has become. But no one can be certain what these vast changes portend.

Much depends upon British solvency and productivity. On July 15, Britain had to deal with a part of her external debt—$12,000,000,000 of it. This debt does not include her obligations to the United States, already settled or recently borrowed. These debts are to countries to which Great Britain owed sterling.

THE BRITISH CONTEND that these debts have already been paid because pounds sterling have been paid in to the accounts of these creditors against which they can draw at their discretion. The creditors want dollars which are not readily available.

Up to July 15, these creditors could spend what is really their own money only within the sterling area, but according to the U. S.-British loan agreement they may spend that money in dollars or any other currency after July 15.

They can now convert their pounds sterling into dollars or if they can get dollar credits with their pounds as collateral, they can spend their money in the United States. It may make a big difference.

One point in Britain's favor the British seem slow to recognize is that in the United States, in many items, particularly in heavy steel products, there is still scarcity and a huge backlog.

The United States is not yet depending upon foreign trade for prosperity. The oft-pronounced recession has not occurred. In fact, many Americans feel that the competition of foreign consumers for American goods is forcing prices upward unwisely.

The British could take advantage of that situation if British productivity were higher than it is. British socialism has failed thus far to produce goods in sufficient quantities to restore the British market.

At any rate, the British did not on July 15 find $12,000,000,000 in American dollars to convert these sterling credits into dollar purchasing power. In fact, the British feel that some of these creditors, particularly India, Egypt and Iraq, are pretty tough on the old country. India, for instance, before the war, owed Great Britain about $3,500,000,000, but now the British owe India more than $5,000,000,000. India made a lot of money out of the war.

THE QUESTION, OF COURSE, is as to who made the money in India. Was it made by British subjects doing business there or by natives? This is undoubtedly a mixed situation, as everything about India is.

Similarly, Egypt did quite well during the war. On the other hand, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, which made huge sacrifices during the war, are quite lenient and reasonable with the old lady. They are not pressing too hard.

The Argentine, Brazil, Venezuela and other creditors seem to be more reasonable than India, Egypt and Iraq.

Great Britain is really caught in a dilemma. A breach of the U. S.-British loan agreement at this time when the Marshall Plan is on the table could be embarrassing, particularly as the British seek additional credits.

On the other hand, dollars are not available to meet the terms of that agreement so far as Britain's credits are concerned. And, besides, the British would like to hold markets for her products, because a favored market once gone may not easily be recaptured.

It is a tough spot.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 22—I knew after I saw Anthony Quinn in "Black Gold" the chance he has been waiting for all these years was just around the corner. Well, here is that big moment. Sam Wanamaker, who had been looking for an actor for the Emmett Lavery play, "The Gentleman From Athens," read what I had to say about Tony and sent for him—and found him to be just what they wanted.

Sam, remember, is directing this play, which Martin Gosch is producing. The story is about a self-made congressman in a small town in California who almost by himself brings political peace to the world. It gets under way Sept. 15, and let me be the first to congratulate Tony.

I HAVE A HOT HUNCH that if Harry Cohn is really dusting off "Burlesque" for Larry Parks, all their troubles will be over the hill. Larry, who is plenty unhappy, wants the role of the hoofer (recently revived on Broadway by Bert Lahr) more than anything in the world.

Janis Carter

If my friend Harry is not fooling around with this idea, then how come he turned down $250,000 from Warners, who would like it for Jack Carson? Considering that Harry only paid $25,000 when he bought "Burlesque" from Paramount, he must have something up his sleeve.

Larry isn't the easiest boy in the world to cast following "The Jolson Story", but "Burlesque" might solve everything. Janis Carter is the girl being whispered for the part Barbara Stanwyck once played.

FRANCHOT TONE is such a modest young man we seldom think of him as being one of Hollywood's richest actors. Franchot, from a wealthy Niagara Falls family, recently came into a big inheritance.

So, he can well afford to go around snapping up good stories for his independent company, the latest being "The Sad Indian." MGM had previously owned the yarn by Thames Williamson, all about an Indian whose life is ruined when his girl deserts him.

Funny part about this is—if Franchot plays in the movie he will have to be the heavy. That's the man who steals the girl from Lo, the sad Indian.

FR. MANUEL ROCHA, of Portugal, is in Hollywood conferring with Monsignor Concannon and other church dignitaries. Fr. Rocha was sent here by the high churchman of his country to interest the movies in the story of the incident which happened directly after the first world war, when Our Lady appeared to three Portuguese children at Fatima and told them that there would never be peace in the world until Russia was restored to Christianity.

Monsignor Concannon has arranged for Fr. Rocha to meet John Considine and Leo McCarey. He feels that if a book were written about Our Lady of Fatima, such as "The Song of Bernadette," in which Franz Werfel featured the shrine at Lourdes, a very powerful picture could be made.

SUSAN ZANUCK, 14-year-old daughter of the Darryl Zanucks, is away at camp and she probably doesn't know that she has an admirer in Italy. Oscar Demejo, husband of Valli, the Italian actress, told us all about it.

Seems when he and his wife were the guests of the Darryl Zanucks at Palm Springs, he took a picture of Susan, Walt Disney's young daughter and several others, and it was published in an Italian newspaper called Fotogrammi. An ardent young Italian saw it and wrote Susan a letter.

This is probably the nearest she'll ever get to hearing about it.

IF BING CROSBY likes the tests of Lucille Norman, the radio singer, she'll probably get the lead opposite him in "Connecticut Yankee," but if he doesn't think she's right for the part, she hasn't a chance for Bing has the final word on his cast.

Bing is now at his ranch, and any OK will have to wait until he gets back. He starts the picture in September so it won't be too long before she knows whether or not the job is hers. Bing is always awfully good to newcomers and if he thinks she's at all right for the part, you can bet he will give the girl a chance.

HEY, ED DURLING—You're always scouting around in astrology for what the stars foretell—this may interest you.

According to a survey made by Celebrity Service, more top male stars (mind I said, males) in the entertainment world are born in the month of May than in any other month.

This month has produced Bing Crosby and Bob Hope also Sir Laurence Olivier, Tyrone Power, Al Jolson, Gary Cooper and Fred Astaire.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Bob Hope is very much better and he will be home in two or three days. He starts his picture Monday and when he gets home he will go straight to Catalina to rest.

Jack Dempsey accompanied by the two children and Hannah Williams, his divorced wife, arrive here Wednesday. The Dempseys will try it again

Mrs. Mark Stevens, an attractive girl, believe me, was with singer Buddy Clark at Ciro's—her first public date since she parted from Mark.

Greta Garbo

What's this I hear about Bob Crosby taking daily vocal coaching lessons from Galli Curci and her husband, Homer Samuels?

Garbo has been having dinner alone at the Town and Country for the last couple of nights, which should start a stampede at the outdoor market.

Bill Bendix is so pleased that his 17-year-old daughter, Lorraine, wants a career, that he's letting her go back East for summer stock training.

Josef Von Sternberg, recently divorced by his wife and former secretary, Jeannie, is going to Italy to make movies with Marlene Dietrich's husband, Rudolf Seiber. Maybe they'll discover another Dietrich.

Betty Jeanne Cohen, daughter of Maurice Cohen who owns the "Palladium," Hollywood's jump and jive dance palace, is marrying Dr. Bernard Herman in the early fall.

20th Century-Fox is changing the title of Betty Grable's "Missouri Waltz" to "Sweet Sue" because Missouri is so closely associated with President Truman. They want to avoid any political implication even in a musical with election year coming up.

Willie Wyler and his wife, now in Brussels, will go to Italy, Paris, and Willie's home town, Mulhouse, France before heading home for Hollywood.

I swore I wouldn't print any flying disc gags—but Jack Parr says Van Johnson's fans are seeing flying disks with freckles.

Iris Bynum gave Bruce Cabot a farewell party before he took off for New York. Iris is the girl who stepped out with Clark Gable a few times.

Katina Pakinou is ill and has cancelled her summer stock engagement.

Anita Ellis, the radio thrush, marries editor Barry Ulanop in New York Oct. 10.

Too bad—But Bobby Vernon and his wife are about to call it a day—and so am I.

Boston After Dark

THE BEVERLY SUMMER THEATER justifies its existence in several ways through its current production of Guy Bolton's dramatization of W. Somerset Maugham's "Theater," originally a novel . . . The production itself is expertly done and a competent cast headed by Elissa Landi, gets as much out of the Bolton-Maugham prattle about love and high-life in jolly old Mayfair as the bloody old bosh deserves.

A GOOD PRODUCTION and a capable star like Miss Landi . . . the two elements of a nice night in the summer-theater that a playgoer in these days of sharp improvement in the so-called "strawhat circuit" has come to expect . . . So, too, would be the obviously qualified cast supporting Miss Landi, and including Ewell Mitchell, Al Russell, Chester Adams, Marion Speed McKondree (ed. note: and is she nice!) Dennis Dengate and Meg Burke . . . Good actors are features of modern summer-theater production that have come to be expected . . . Our personal oakleaf in clusters for courage in action goes to the Beverly Summer Theater and its Scotti family of directors (Joseph G. Scotti, president; William G. Scotti, vice-president, and resident manager; and Edmund Scotti, treasurer) for giving a chance to the young lady whose professional name is "Meg Burke"—AN "UNKNOWN."

WE HAPPEN TO KNOW something of the struggle which Miss Burke, currently the ingenus, lead of the Beverly Players, has gone through to "crash" the theater . . . Miss Burke is a Brookline girl . . . Margaret Ellen Burke . . . Her father is William B. "Billy" Burke, the Boston wool trader who is so popular in the marts where wool is traded that he would win a contest to choose the best-loved man in the wool business (ask anyone in the trade!) . . . Billy Burke probably is the only fellow we know who could be given the dubious accolade of "not having an enemy in the world" . . . The highest tribute that could be paid him, probably, is that he has been very successful in spite of being a man without an enemy.

MR. BURKE IS A DEVOTED father, naturally . . . He and his two bright, talented and pretty young chicks, Margaret Ellen and Patricia, are a constant threesome . . . When Margaret-Ellen, the elder, elected to "go on the stage," her father was there in the background ready to assist . . . Against his elder daughter's wishes, Papa Burke did what he could to further the child's career in a fantastic business which was an unintelligible and as foreign to him as selling a bucket of sheep dip or a bale of cotton nails would be to Michael Meyerling, who produced "The Skin of Our Teeth" . . . This department quietly did its bit to help the Burke child get a start . . . (And got no place!) For three long and heart-breaking Broadway semesters, Margaret Ellen (Meg) Burke made the weary rounds of producers' offices and casting agents' dens.

TO JOIN ACTORS' Equity, Miss Burke would have to have experience or the contracted promise of a part in a play . . . The get in a show to get the required experience, or to get a contract calling for her appearance in a Broadway cast, she would have to be a member of Actors' Equity . . . (Sometimes one wonders how any newcomer gets a start in the theater.) . . . Nothing happened . . . Meg—who wears her ebony hair in a page-boy bob and manages to do it stylishly—stuck it out.

Three weeks ago she braced the Scotti family which runs the Summer Theater for a job.

The Scottis—mirabile dictu—were impressed, and Meg made her debut last night

She revealed a clear, unusual voice that inflects beautifully in the right places, and she "projects," which is almost everything in an actress . . . With her natural magnetism helped by obvious intelligence and feminine appeal, young Miss Burke would seem to have a chance of going places in the theater . . . Thanks to the Beverly Summer Theater and the assembled Scottis, one local girl at least, has cracked the vicious circle which demands Equity membership to get a role, and a role (preferably several of them) to join Equity.

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, July 22 Screams of joy emanated from the umbrella and slicker makers, and from the gentlemen who operate theaters, for summer rain, a bane to the beaches, is a boon to Broadway, and nothing makes a ticket broker or a night club owner happier than a thundercloud on the horizon. Let's have more of this, St. Swithin! is their battle cry; it isn't raining rain, you know, it's raining cover charges . . . A flock of welcome strangers enjoyed the humidity. Slim, glossy Beatrice Lillie of the pert nose and sparkling eye skittered around in fashionable circles. Barry Fitzgerald was a working fella by day and an amused spectator at the local frivolities by night, and Joan Blondell Todd made the Stork Club sound like Christmas in July when she sashayed in to the tinkle of 17 happy hectorets of solid gold . . . Margaret Hart, here from California to play in "Rain," in Stamford, N. Y. confided that she became terribly flustered a few days ago when she saw Clark Gable driving along Ventura Blvd. She hastened, in fact, to get behind the fender of her car . . . Now she's having a small battle with her husband, Seaman Jacobs, because she refuses to have the fender straightened. She says, almost tearfully, that it's a priceless souvenir of her encounter with Gable!

WASHINGTON, July 22—Leon Henderson, the accomplished rumba dancer who once employed the set of brains developed thereby in directing the destinies of OPA, told the joint congressional economic committee we are headed for a serious depression unless Congress acts promptly to raise wages and lower prices.

Raise wages and lower prices! Once again the terpsichorean Professor Henderson demonstrates he knows as much about the laws of economics as vaudeville's old economist, the larger of the two Black Crows, who used to explain he had bought a pig in the spring for $3 and sold it in the fall for $3. But he had the use of the pig all summer.

ZaSu Pitts, the movie actress with the vague, helpless, gestures, was in town the other day. She revealed that the oddly-spelled "ZaSu", with the two capital letters, is derived from the names of two aunts, Liza and Susan.

It's a good thing Prof. Henderson didn't have a couple of aunts named Fatima and Hedda.

THERE IS A young gentleman named Bob Addie who travels extensively around the country writing essays on sports. He is a brilliant young man, which makes it all the more tragic because he is in danger of being cut down in his prime. One more postcard from the oaf and I kill him.

AS YOU MAY possibly recall, I have had occasion to speak strongly against an obsession which seems to afflict many of my countrymen, and also countrywomen—the utterly mad and insensate desire to sleep under blankets in summertime.

I was deadly serious when I wrote those pieces. There is nothing more calculated to drive me into a splendid viking frenzy than to have some dithyrambic tomnoddy gloat over the fact that he has been sleeping under blankets. There have been occasions when I was so strongly moved I would have been glad to see them sleeping under six feet of sod—and well trampled-down yet.

This blanket-sleeping proclivity seems to be assuming the proportions of a national aberration which we might well view with alarm. The way things are going now it might even prompt President Truman to veto summertime. If we are going to waste this blessed season by smothering under winter coverings what—oh what—will the harvest be?

This dementia seems to afflict high and low alike. On the high side I have just had a telegram from Mr. Roy St. Lewis, one of our most eminent attorneys, who is sojourning in Colorado Springs. He wires: "Sleeping under no blankets. Wish you were here instead of me." On the low side—and if he wants to make anything out of this let him sue me—the sports writing Mr. Addie postcards from Chicago: "Having fine time. Sleeping under two blankets with gusto."

All I've got to say is that I hope Mr. Addie and his friend Gusto get the seven-year itch from it.

ONE MORE blanket communication: Jack Norworth, husband and vaudeville partner of the world-famous Nora Bayes, forwards a miniature blanket, about two inches square, from Laguna Beach, Cal., with the notation: "This is about the right size for you for Washington, D. C., in the summer."

I suspect Mr. Norworth used to play here before we had air-conditioning.

REP. CLARENCE J. Brown of Ohio, chairman of the executive committee of the Republican National Committee, says he thinks he has discovered the secret of how to get a Republican bill past President Truman.

"Just put a clause in it," he chuckles, "calling for an investigation of the President."

One of the few GOP measures to which Mr. Truman affixed his signature without hesitation was H. R. 775, sponsored by Mr. Brown, calling for an investigation of the executive branch of the government.

Homemade Raised Rolls Made in Record Time Now

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

FRESHLY-BAKED YEAST ROLLS are just as mouth-melting during the summer months as during the winter ones. But many homemakers deprive themselves and their families of this wonderful treat during hot weather because there seems to be too much labor involved.

Of course, we're all familiar with the popular method of making up a batch of dough, storing it in the refrigerator, and cutting off portions for each day's use. But it's the preliminary operation that seems to be too much work for some people during warm weather.

And it's toward these people that this column is directed today. Of course, we don't mind how many others listen in, because we have some good news for all bread lovers.

READY PREPARED MIXES

From time to time we've talked about those handy baking mixes that enable one to whip up a pan of muffins, waffles, a batch of gingerbread, or even a cake in a matter of seconds. But now we're calling attention to honest-to-goodness homemade raised rolls that can be prepared the same way—by merely adding water.

For the first time in baking mix history, it is possible to get a fully-prepared mix (including yeast) for baking all types of homemade rolls and bread. This new mix has been a long time "in the works" but everyone who has tried it has said, "It was certainly worth waiting for!"

From one package, you can make 12 to 18 rolls, depending on the type and size you prefer. And, just as you like to enlist the services of your refrigerator in making ordinary raised dough, so you can use it for this dough. At a temperature of 45 to 50 degrees, it can be kept satisfactorily for 3 or 4 days, so small batches of rolls can be baked at any time.

Read these directions and you will see how simple the whole procedure is:

PREPARATION OF DOUGH

Place the contents of the small envelope enclosed in the package in a medium-sized bowl. (The envelope contains yeast.) Add 1 cup (8 oz.) warm water. Stir gently until completely dissolved. Add the contents of the large bag enclosed in the package all at once. Mix thoroughly until the dough is well blended —which will be about one minute.

If you want to set aside part of the dough for later baking, divide the dough at this point. For rolls to be served within 3 hours, follow Method I; for delayed baking, follow Method II.

METHOD I

(Immediate Baking)

Lightly grease top of dough and cover securely with wax paper. Let stand in warm place (80 to 85 deg.) for about 1 hour, or until dough is raised and light. Form rolls in desired shapes. Cover rolls lightly with dry tea towel. Let stand in warm place (80 to 85 deg.) for approximately 1 hour or until rolls are doubled in volume. Bake about 15 minutes in hot oven (375 to 400 deg. F.).

METHOD II

(Delayed Baking)

Lightly grease top of dough, cover securely with wax paper, and place in refrigerator. It must be left there at least 3 hours, or may be kept for as long as 3 or 4 days. Remove from refrigerator at least 1½ hours before serving time. Form desired number of rolls. Any unused dough can be recovered and stored away again. Cover rolls with dry tea towel. Let stand in warm place (80 to 85 deg.) for about 1 hour, or until rolls are doubled in volume. Bake about 15 minutes in hot oven (375 to 400 deg. F.).

PARKER HOUSE ROLLS

Roll dough about ¼ inch thick. Cut with floured biscuit cutter and make crease across center of each round with dull edge of knife. Brush with melted shortening, fold each over and press lightly on fold. Bake on greased cookie sheet.

For a crisp and glossy crust, always lightly brush rolls with melted shortening or milk.

THE TAILORED CLASSIC, in which a woman lives most of her life, should be a must on your fall fashion shopping list. Here's one designed by Kiviette in beige with pockets which form a peplum, contrasting buttons and belt and worn with a soft silk scarf at the neck. —R. M.

HOMEMADE ROLLS

Velvety Mask Peps Skins

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

YOUTH IN SPRINGTIME or any season of the year is a source of envy to the gals who see the years slipping by at a fast pace. There's no doubt about it . . . if you feel old, you'll look old . . . So don't let Father Time leave his indelible mark on your fair countenance.

If your face is showing signs of approaching age what you need is a pepper-upper that will erase those tired telltale lines. There is a wonder-working cream mask that quickly whisks away the wrinkles and leaves the skin smooth and eye-appealing.

Apply this cream that looks like ambrosial custard and allow it to dry on your face. It will form a light, satiny film that spreads evenly and in fifteen minutes . . . presto . . . you can actually see the years lifting. Gone will be the tired look and there to stay will be a radiant, clear and velvety-smooth face that will sparkle with the joy of youth.

ONLY 15 MINUTES

No longer will you shun the close scrutiny of your friends and hide, ostrich-like, lest you betray your years. A youthful-looking face is yours if you spend fifteen minutes, whenever your skin looks tired and sluggish, to relax with this wonderful cream mask. You will feel the tissues tighten and, when the mask is finally removed, you will behold a lovelier you.

Beauty may be only skin deep, but who doesn't want to look beautiful? In this atomic age there is no place for a woman who doesn't look vibrantly youthful at all times.

For the name of this velvety mask phone the Beauty Dept.; LIBerty 4000, daily, except week-ends, or write to Ruth Mugglebee, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WINSOME Wanda Hendrix, new Paramount Pictures star, is the epitome of youth and beauty. Her radiant complexion is velvety-smooth. You, too, can have a skin he'd love to touch if you use a wonder-working velvety mask that will firm your contours.

That Important First Impression

The very practical reason for putting your best foot forward to make the best possible first impression is . . . that you may not have a second chance. Better to be gracious at that first meeting than to be sorry you didn't turn on the charm. You may have muffed the beginning of a wonderful friendship . . . or romance.

MRS. BEECKMAN.

Boy Pal Suddenly Changed

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I used to go steady with a boy that I thought the world of, and still do, and to all appearances he loved me just as much. We had our quarrels, but we always made right up.

Two months ago, he came over to my house one day and said he wouldn't be seeing me any more. He offered me no reason of any kind. Nobody knows why he is mad at me. Mutual friends know nothing, either. They only say he has been acting strangely lately, and has been fighting with most everyone. He usually isn't one to be mad at anyone.

Could you advise me what to do? Surely he couldn't have fallen out of love with me so soon. "TROUBLED."

Dear "Troubled":

If this boy is "acting strangely," and having trouble with all his friends, it may be that some nervous or emotional difficulty is at the bottom of his apparent change of personality.

But you must remember that while they are young, both boys and girls are apt very readily to lose their interest in one particular person and be fascinated by someone else for no discoverable reason except that youth is a time of change. Most young people "go steady" with several different persons of the opposite sex before they are old enough to settle seriously on one. It may be that this has happened to your boy friend, and he can't give you a reason because there actually isn't anything he can put a finger on.

In either case, however, I would say that all you can do is to wait and see what happens.

Jewel-like Embroidery Hit

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

EMBROIDERY so lavish that it sparkles like heirloom jewelry on a dress is a heavily-scored fashion note in the season's important collections. The embroidery that decorates dresses and ensembles for gala occasions looks like jewelry. It is worked by hand, in gold and silver and flashing stones, and patterned to make designs that carry out the lines of a costume.

The ensemble sketched today shows how importantly this embroidery is used. Charles Armour uses black wool to make the molded dress and its long-line jacket. Circling the shoulder line of the jacket are rippled lines of gold and jewel-toned embroidery in a deep shawl effect. Slender lines of the same embroidery band the low, round neck of the dress.

'Fantasia' Back; Comes to Kenmore

Walt Disney's famous full-length musical film, "Fantasia," returns after a five-year absence from a local screen.

Beginning tomorrow, it may be seen at the Kenmore Theatre, where it opens a limited engagement. This will be the complete two-hour version, including the famous Bach "Toccato and Fugue" sequence.

Disney received three Academy Awards for this fabulous full-length feature in Technicolor.

Leopold Stokowski conducts the Philadelphia Orchestra in all the musical numbers, including Tchaikowsky's Nutcracker Suite, Stravinsky's Rite of Spring, Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony, Nighty on Bald Mountain by Moussorgsky, Schubert's Ave Maria, The Scorcerer's Apprentice by Dukas and Ponchielli's Dance of the Hours.

Biologists Told Penicillin Hampers Coagulation

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 22 (AP)—Sir Alexander Fleming, who developed penicillin, said overdoses of the drug might impair the ability of the blood to coagulate.

The British scientist told microbiologists from 30 countries that penicillin, accordingly, would be dangerous if used in diseases which caused bleeding.

Perry Como at RKO Boston July 31

On this month's final day, a week from Thursday, Perry Como restores the RKO Boston Theater to its vaudeville status.

Como will be doubling as star of the first stage show since the summer hiatus and bellwether of glittering array of stage, screen and radio personalities lined up for the season's forthcoming shows.

With him will be another popular singing star, Marion Hutton, and Lloyd Shaffer, orchestra leader. Other acts will be the Four Evans, a dancing quartet composed of father, mother, son and daughter; Eddie Bartell, the original "radio rogue," and the Martin Brothers and their unusual marionettes.

POOR JOE, who serves a prison term for a crime he didn't commit, was one of John Garfield's early and best roles. He and Priscilla Lane in the re-issue of "Dust Be My Destiny," are due Thursday on RKO Boston screen.

"DEAR RUTH," who would be Joan Caulfield, promises lots of laughs for Met patrons, beginning Thursday. The lovely Joan is shown here with the film's letter-writing GI, William Holden. In the cast are Billy DeWolfe and Edward Arnold.

'Years Ago' at Cohasset

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Years Ago," Ruth Gordon's past-indicative comedy which delighted blase Broadway with its warm, folksy quality the past season, is this week's offering at Cohasset Town Hall.

William Harrigan, who since his stage debut at the age of five with his father, of Harrigan and Hart musical fame, in "Reilly of the 400," has carved an impressive stage career for himself, is playing the lead in the South Shore Players production.

The lead in stage star-playwright Gordon's plays, perversely enough, the role of Clinton Jones, the austere if reluctantly appreciative father of the stage struck young Wollaston girl who was to become one of the theater's finest performers.

Fredric March, as you may recall, tied with Dudley Digges ("The Iceman") for best male performer in Variety's poll of the Broadway aisle-sitters. Not a minor factor in his personation of "Papa" Jones was his complete mastery of the Wollaston way of speaking.

Cooperstown Tilt May Have Solved B's Hill Problem

By AUSTEN LAKE

CHICAGO, July 22—The play-weary Braves ended their mission of sentiment deep in the cow and calico country of upper New York state by beating the Yankees, 4-3, in ten innings in what is hopefully, but not indubitably, imagined as a preview of the World Series.

It was Cooperstown's annual big moment and its 108th centennial on the spot where Gen. Abner Doubleday is said to have walked off his first crude square in inventing a popular frenzy which was to consume so many hours and so much valuable real estate and become such a significant force in American life.

That the Braves won the ball game is incidental to the pictorial scene in the sleepy tourist town which combines the best in corn tassle and spa society. So, along Cooperstown's main stem where cracker barrel yokels spit-n-whittle, under the arched elms and in a somnolent summertide, the bankers and feed and harness merchants hung up their shutters. From the surrounding hayfields, the farmers came in sulkies, buckboards and T-models to watch grown men revert to Abner's boyhood ideal.

Some of the biggest brass hats in baseball rolled up in chartered Pullmans. Bands tootled. Flags flew and the famous figures of the Braves and Yankees, who had been only box score names, came to pay homage at a shrine to which they owe their jobs.

IT WAS MOSTLY an informal affair in which the game was often stopped dead while hordes of small boys and pigtail girls stormed out from the crowded stands between innings and surrounded the players with autograph books and pencils. No state cops or park police shooed them back and the crowd good humoredly waited till the tykes had their scrawls. And, though the umpire-in-chief, a blocky little gnome who wore a photographer's advertisement on his chest protector and carolled his decisions in a wailing cow moo, often had weird ideas of balls and strikes, the players of both sides accepted his dictums in smiling tolerance and never turned around to make turtle snaps at his chin. And, once when the little elf called a strike on a low one, the official announcer barked reproachfully: "It looked good from here," his amplified voice reaching the nethermost parts of the park. Several times the kids raced out on live base hits to kidnap the ball and leg away. But nobody minded. This one was primarily for fun.

Except for one thing! Being starved for pitching, Mgr. Billy Southworth tagged Coach Ernie White, a former Cardinal pitcher and currently a Braves odd-jobs man, to serve up the first five innings. By coincidence, Ernie's last major league task was in the 1942 World Series against the Yankees, whom he beat handily, 2 to 0. But in the intervening years, Ernie went to war and when he came home his arm was just a kind of flabby hinge that hung helplessly from his shoulder. Or so it seemed.

Twice last spring he pitched exhibition games in the corn and Bible belt when the Braves did not want to waste any pitchers. He looked just ho-hum against Fort Wayne and fairly brilliant against Bluefield, W. Va. But Southworth said, "Aw shux! He's just a decrepit old has-been" and sent him back to minding the Braves' ball bag and directing traffic near first base.

But today was something different. Ernie is around 30 now, which isn't so old when you consider gents like Si Johnson, who resembles a corpulent, successful banker with a rubber tire around his middle and shrewd, bespectacled pair of eyes. But Ernie blazed his fast ball around the edges of the plate and curled his curve very sharply and had the Yankee regulars (all except Joe DiMaggio) sucking in their stomachs and mixing their feet. To be sure, Don Lindell hit a courtesy home run, which Tommy Holmes would have caught in his lap at Braves Field but which went for the full trip in this toy ball park. So, you might say White got by without a real blemish.

AND, THOUGH AFTERWARD, Billy Southworth would not say "yes," he didn't say "no," and indicated by the shine in his eye that he might in this period of pitching famine, ask to have Ernie reinstated to the active list and use him for shooting trouble, of which there has been aplenty in late Braves' games with much more in sight.

The fact is that White looked more of a pitcher today than any Braves relief heaver in the last month. So Monday's game at Cooperstown may have been more than a sentimental journey and might yield some very vital dividends in Ernie White. Such miracles have happened.

The Yankees' marcelled manager, Bucky Harris, didn't want to risk his most precious possession, Joe DiMaggio, in a game which didn't get into the official records. So, he let Joe sit this one out until the burghers began to yell and holler for him with one out in the ninth, the bases full and the Braves leading 3 to 2. So, just to please the populace as Bucky said later, he nodded to Joe and out he came in all his majesty while the left field crowd inched gradually closer like a line of infantry skirmishers, to shorten the distance betwixt plate and a ground rule two-bagger. The crowd wanted to help Joe get his hit.

The best that he could do was a fly to center that scored the tying run to the jubilation of the crowd but to the vast disgust of the visiting journalists who tore up their advance "leads" and had to start their essays all over. And, about that time, a bolt of lightning tore out the bottom of some big bellied rain clouds and it began to pelt liquid nickels. But all ended well when Al Lyons flubbed Frank McCormick's roller and let Litwhiler score the winning run. So, it was far from a wasted day, chiefly because of what Ernie White can mean to the Braves, if Southworth so wills.

It's Now or Never as Sox Open Fenway Park Stand

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Eighteen of the next 21 Red Sox baseball games will be played at the chummy and intimate Fenway Park and if the American League defending titlists fail to warm their relationship with the pace-setting Yankees, the local fans will certainly have to look to other pastures for their October sports entertainment.

It will be Now Or Never, in true Horatio Alger story-book fashion, for the Cronin A. C. as they return for a dozen in a row at home, starting today against the Chicago White Sox (Joe Dobson, 10-5 vs. Ed Lopat, 7-8).

They're 12½ games behind the New Yorkers; they're indefinitely stalled in third place behind Detroit; they're going to have to be Boston's new "Miracle Team," like the Braves of 1914, to soar back to the A. L. penthouse. But frankly, they still think they can make it in spite of the rough going-away present they received from the St. Louis Browns.

There was still some slight consolation remaining after the bitterness of the Sabbath twin losses had been bumped out of their systems in the plane flight home. Principally, the league had learned that the Yankees could be "had" and although the Sox had no part of the turning tide—in fact, failed to benefit as the New Yorkers were doubly embarrassed in Detroit—they regained the feeling that they were still in the race.

Then, too, Manager Joe Cronin—it was Mr. Cronin at Fenway yesterday as he shook off the horrid dreams that continued to haunt him from his Sunday nightmare—had a new Big Four pitching staff to operate in the hot weather spell. Or just possibly, it might be more aptly termed the Medium Sized Four—but at least a big improvement over his "missing" Four of the earlier stages of the season.

Dobson, the winningest hurler on the staff, has just about passed over the hump on his arm soreness; Earl Johnson, the only active southpaw on the staff, has 24 scoreless innings in his immediate wake as he prepares to take over the mound for the moonlight meeting tomorrow night; Dave Ferriss (he never had much success in St. Louis) turned in some of his best work of the season on the trip just completed, and, of course, Dennie Galehouse, who cracked "now you see why the Browns let me go" after he'd been tagged solidly, will complete the group.

Possibly, if the group can get together with some sense of consistency in turning in complete games, it will allow Tex Hughson to move into the one-a-week duty as prescribed when his arm first went dead.

They'll have to carry the load. It's a big drop from the king's size quartet of last year that had Mickey Harris (13-4); Dobson (9-3); Ferriss (14-4) and Hughson (10-6) as the Sox were merrily on their way to the championship.

Moses, Hughson and Coach Larry Woodall were the only members of the team who returned to Boston by train . . . and they were quite happy about it all . . . the air force group circled the Logan Airport for 50-minutes before landing . . . after instrument flying over a bumpy road the major part of the way . . . Doerr agreed to the plane trip because he had to hurry home to his son's birthday party.

Pesky and Mele were getting in some batting practise at Fenway in the early afternoon yesterday although they couldn't have arrived home before 5 a. m. . . . they had Sam Dente tossing them up, the hot-fielding third baseman who'll be re-introduced to the Ladies Day crowd today.

Pete Fox, on a visit to Fenway from his NE League team, had plenty to say about schoolboy Normie Roy, pitching his first year in professional ball . . . Fox played on the West Coast (Oakland and Casey Stengel) last year with the Yanks' mound sensation Don Shea . . . and he feels, although its still early, that the former Hearst Sandlot star shows more promise . . . "He's not so far away as a lot of fans think!" said Fox.

Only casualty on the trip was Herb Finnegan, sports writer . . . he had a ballooned jaw as a result of an infected tooth . . . There's nothing like a gigantic tooth-ache to start a vacation.

B's Meet Cubs Twice

CHICAGO, July 22—The Braves, who stopped over in Cooperstown, N. Y., yesterday to nip the Yankees, 4-3, in 10 innings in what many New England fans hope was a preview of the 1947 World Series, launch their third western trip of the season here in a twin-bill.

They are now in third place, four and a half games behind the league leading Dodgers and one-half game behind the Giants.

Manager Billy Southworth has nominated Charlie (Red) Barrett, with a six-six record, and Bill Voiselle, who has three victories against seven defeats, to face the Cubs.

Hank Borowy, with an 8-6 record, and Claude Passeau, who has yet to win a game while losing three, will face the Braves.

At Abner Doubleday Field some 12,000 fans turned out to watch the unveiling of 15 new plaques in baseball's hall of fame and the exhibition tilt between the Yanks and Braves.

The Braves atoned somewhat for the National Leaguers defeat in the All-Star game by putting the dampers on the red-hot Yankees.

After the Yanks came from behind to tie it up at 3-all with a two-run rally in the ninth, the Braves tallied the winning marker in the 10th.

First Basemen Will Hold Spotlight in Hearst N.E. Sandlot Final

By JACK CONWAY, JR.

There will be two first basemen out at Fenway Park next Tuesday afternoon for the Hearst New England Sandlot baseball championship game who will attract plenty of attention, Harry Agganis of Lynn Classical and Alec Norskey of Gardner High.

Alec Norskey

The Hearst N. E. squad of 30 players will be split into two teams. Norskey will play under Joe Cronin, Red Sox manager, on one team and Agganis will play under Lou Boudreau, Cleveland pilot, on the other. Two other first basemen, Lou Gorman of Providence and Art Garrett of Chelsea will alternate.

Many fine first basemen have been developed on New England Sandlots. Most recent of them is Frank Seastrand of Norwood, who played in last year's Hearst N. E. final and then went with the Braves.

This may be the great chance for Agganis and Norskey.

Harry has been a talented athlete with Lynn Classical High for the past three years. He has another year to go. He is 18 years old, stands six feet, and weighs 185.

"Lots of power at the plate," remarked Mike Rybe, pilot of the Lynn Red Sox, as he watched Agganis in the recent Hearst Lynn tryouts. "He has a good arm, great for a high school kid."

Agganis, although a better baseball player, gained his greatest fame on the football field. He quarterbacked Lynn to a couple of good football years. This year his heavy bat clipped away at a .333 mark as Lynn won the State baseball crown.

Norskey has a three-year batting mark at Gardner High that reads like something out of a Hollywood scenario. Imagine an 18-year-older hitting for .540, .536, and .380.

Claude Davidson, president of the N. E. League, watched Alec during the recent Hearst tryouts at Dilboy Field, Somerville.

"The kid is sharp at the plate. He doesn't go after the bad one. He pulls the ball well into left when the occasion arises."

Norskey also quarterbacked his high school team.

A selection board of Joe Cronin, Lou Boudreau, Claude Davidson and Bill Barrett, Red Sox scouts will name the two best baseball prospects from the Hearst final at Fenway Park. These two boys will make the seven-day trip to New York for the Hearst National Sandlot game in the Polo Grounds.

Hearst National Golf Trials Open Monday at Woodland

By BILL GRIMES

The second annual all match play qualifications for the Hearst national Junior championship will start next Monday at the Woodland Golf Club.

A field of thirty two, eight from each of the four sectional medal play rounds will tee off Monday morning.

There will be two rounds of match play on the opening day and the quarter and semi finals will be decided on Tuesday. Then, on Wednesday morning, the survivors of the four rounds will meet in the finale, which will decide the New England junior championship.

The Woodland field will be one of the fastest in the annals of Hearst New England junior championships. In the past the Hearst has produced a legion of great young golfers.

Joe Lynch was the first Hearst New England titleholder. Leon "Bunny" Emerson, Wollaston, succeeded "Little Joe" and then came Les Douty, Green Hill; Sam Neild, Jr., Pawtucket; Lennie Curran, Sandy Burr and Vinnie Moran, Fresh Pond.

A year ago, the semi finalists in the "New Englands," Vinnie Morgan, Ralph Jenkins, New Bedford; Gael Coadkley, Woodlawn, and Ray Woodcock, New Bedford, went to Detroit and played in the first Hearst National Junior championship at the Oakland Hills Country Club.

The juniors who reach the finals next week at Woodland will qualify for the second annual Hearst National Junior championship which will be played at the California Country Club Los Angeles, the week of Aug. 18.

Accompanied by the writer, the Hearst finalists will leave Aug. 11 on the New England States for Chicago. They have reservations on the Golden State Limited out of th Windy City Aug. 12 and are due to arrive in Los Angeles on the night of Aug. 14.

All of the Hearst National Junior championship matches will be played in the morning. David C. Brandman, promotion manager of the Los Angeles Examiner has arranged trips through various motion picture studios for the contestants, whom later in the week he will take to Catalina

On Friday afternoon, the Hearst juniors will team up with movie stars among whom will be Bing Crosby and Bob Hope in a junior-movie-radio start four-ball tournament.

There will be four Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle and Texas representatives and two from New England, Metropolitan New York, Albany, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago and Milwaukee, making a field of 32 to battle for the title, which "Mac" Hunter, son of Willie Hunter, a former British amateur champion, now the professional at the Riverside Country Club in the outskirts of Los Angeles.

Among the youngsters who have qualified to play in the Hearst Nationals at Los Angeles are Bud Worsham, Baltimore, brother of the U. S. Open titleholder, Tommy Veech, Milwaukee, the Western Junior champion and Tom Holland, of Long Island, N. Y., a protege of Joe Turnesa.

9-Time National Diving Champion In Falmouth Meet

Anne Ross, nine times a national high and low board diving champion, will make her first appearance on a New England spring board at a NEAAU swimming meet scheduled for the new Cape Codder Hotel pool; Falmouth, next Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ross began winning her long string of American championships when she was a freshman at Barnard College, in New York. She later studied at Wellesley College where she got her masters in physical education.

"It seems like only a few months ago when I began competing in diving championships," stated the Port Washington, N. Y., girl.

Her first great conquest was in 1941 when he won the low board title. In following years she was unbeatable, winning both the high and low board titles from 1942 through 1945. Anne is undoubtably the most talented woman diving competing anywhere in the world today.

Three New England championship events will add flourish to the Cape Cod meet. Clara Lamore, Jean Senior and other top New England strokers will compete in the 400-meter freestyle championship.

Bill Campbell, Wimpy Burtnett, Moonie Kong will be among those in the NEAAU three meter diving championship. The third title event is the men's senior NEAAU 100 meter backstroke.

Robinson Promises to Box For Jimmy Doyle Benefit Fund

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—Welterweight champion Ray Robinson's manager says the (Sugar Man) will go through with a benefit fight in Los Angeles in November for the family of the late Jimmy Doyle but it will not be under promoter Babe McCoy's sponsorship.

Doyle died after Robinson knocked him out in Cleveland on June 24 and Robinson soon afterward announced his intention to fight a benefit. It was learned the idea was suggested to him by heavyweight champion Joe Louis

However, McCoy, the Los Angeles promoter, announced here yesterday that the bout had been called off and said "it looks to me like he's definitely running out of the bout."

McCoy had scheduled Robinson with California Jackie Wilson for Sept. 23 at Los Angeles.

Apprised of McCoy's statement, Robinson announced through his business manager Pete Vaccaro that he would make the benefit appearance but under the promotion of Larry Rummans instead of McCoy. Vaccaro said Robinson

WHAT STARS DID

By the Associated Press

JACKIE ROBINSON, Dodgers—Got only a single, a grounder which took a bad hop and bounced off third baseman's glove, in eight times at bat in the doubleheader against Cincinnati, but Dodgers won both games 7-4 and 4-3.

(Enos Slaughter, Cards; Walker Cooper, Giants; Joe DiMaggio, Yankees; Ted Williams, Red Sox, and Lou Boudreau, Indians, did not play.)

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By the Associated Press

BATTING: Bruce Edwards, Dodgers—Drove in four runs in the Brooks' first game 7-4 win over the Reds with three singles; singled in the winning run in the ninth inning of the 4-3 second game.

PITCHING: Dutch Leonard, Phillies—Veteran knuckleballer won his 11th game of the season against only four defeats by limiting the Pirates to five hits as the Phils won 8-1.

State Moves To Restock Bird Haunts

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Thanks to the splendid co-operation of several score Massachusetts rod and gun clubs, upland gunning may be improved in this section this fall.

Working with the Division of Fisheries and Game, sportsmen's organizations have been raising pheasant chicks, starting with birds as young as a day-old. These feathered targets, coupled with those to be put out by the state, will total close to 30,000, we were told by James Power, director of the Fisheries and Game Division.

"We are experimenting with 10 new intermediate releasing pen areas,' stated Mr. Power, "and around 2000 to 3000 12 weeks old chicks will be planted in the pens during the next few days. The pens allow the birds to become acclimated with the surrounding terrain before venturing forth into natural covers."

We hope that the impending hunting season will prove more successful than last year's, for pheasants were as scarce as stripers in a trout pool during that period,

Querying Director Power about the duck shooting dates, we learned that the division has suggested a season of 35 consecutive days, starting late in November. Coastal flights take place then, while black ducks are active inland at that time, thus pleasing practically all of the nimrods . . . Definite dates will be announced shortly. . . Scoter duck hunting will not be affected by the cut in the season, the sport commencing early in the autumn.

Ruddy-faced Jim Power has high hopes of building a vast trout rearing station at Quabbin Dam in the near future . . . This site would be ideal for such a purpose, and the project is needed in the Bay State.

ANGLING ANGLES: New director of the Division of Marine Fisheries is Ralph Osborn, who once held the same position . . . "I certainly stepped into a mess," he declared. "Personnel troubles, financial difficulties, and the current seining of striped bass are real headaches; however, I'll do my best to straighten out affairs, particularly the latter!"

Chief Coastal Warden Howard Willard intends to go after the seiners "tooth and nail," despite lack of funds and equipment. He has already received much confidential information about the illegal angling activities, and urges sportsmen to reveal the names of seiners, if possible.

Surf casters and boatsmen have been hooking stripers, ranging from 5 to 32 pounds, in the Crane's beach section of Essex and Ipswich. The fish are hitting seaworms, eelskins and plugs

Assault Draws Top Weight For Stymie Duel at Suffolk

By DAVE WILSON

The King Ranch's Assault and Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs Stymie have been assigned 136 and 128 pounds, respectively, for the running of the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap a week from tomorrow. Weights for the 40 nominees, with the exception of the Calumet Farm's Armed who was officially withdrawn sometime ago, were announced last night by Racing Secretary John P. Turned.

In determining the weight allotments for Assault and Stymie, Racing Secretary Turner evidently disregarded Stymie's win over Assault at level weights in last Saturday's running of the $100,000 International Gold Cup which was contested on a sloppy racing strip. He apparently went back to the meeting btween these rivals in the Butler Handicap on July 12.

The 136 pounds assigned Assault is just one less than he carried in his head victory over Stymie in the Butler, and the Jacobs colorbearer is picking up only two pounds off that endeavor which was run over a fast track.

Just how lightly the Suffolk Downs racing secretary regards Stymie, the world's largest money winning thoroughbred, and his triumph in the Gold Cup, may be realized by the fact that he has Polynesian and Natchez bracketed at equal weights with the Jacobs champion at 128 pounds.

In arriving at Natchez's weight assignment, Turner must have taken the Jeffords colorbearer's bangup second to Stymie in the Gold Cup strongly into consideration. Surely, Natchez hadn't shown enough in his previous races this year to warrant belief that he is the equal of Stymie, although he has several corking endeavors to his credit.

Polynesian is the champion sprinter on both the New Jersey and Delaware circuits this year and he is a fair-to-middlin' middle-distance star in his own right. But by any stretch of imagination you cannot mention the Widener star in the same breath with the money-winning champ if past performances are taken into account.

If anything, it was the distance of the Massachusetts—one mile and a furlong—that prompted Turner to assign Natchez and Polynesian equal weights along with Stymie

Natchez and Polynesian are both speed horses and the route should prove right down their alley. Stymie, on the other hand, is a cup runner and he is at his best at distances from one mile and a quarter upwards.

Weights on the other eligibles are Miss Grillo, 117; Coincidence, 116; Bridal Flower, 115; Dinner Party, 115; Concordian, 112; Bert, 111; Blue Yonder, 111; Elpis, 111; Talon, 111; Bill Hardey, 110; Havahome, 109; Prognosis, 109; Pujante, 109 and The Doge, 109.

Ted Moves Up to 4th

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—Harry (Little Dixie) Walker of the Phillies continued to pace the National League hitters today, but Lou Boudreau, playing manager of the Cleveland Indians lost his American League leadership to Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees.

Walker, the fleet ballhawk brother of Big Dixie of Brooklyn, banged out nine hits in 22 times at bat during the span through Sunday's games to boost his average from .341 to .346. DiMaggio clubbed six hits in his last four games, while Boudreau was held to three safeties in 11 trips to the plate, to pass Lou, .340 to .337.

George Keil of Detroit was third with .328, and Ted Williams fourth with .327. Williams made the biggest climb of the week, coming up from below the .300 mark to a spot among the first five.

Next in line were Luke Appling, Chicago, .321; Johnny Pesky, Boston, .318; George McQuinn, New York, .311; Bob Dillinger, St. Louis, .310; Barney McCosky, Philadelphia, .308 and Dick Wakefield, Detroit, .307.

Walker's lead over Frank Gustine of Pittsburgh, his closest pursuer, is 26 points. The Pirate infielder climbed from seventh to the runner-up shot, jumping his average from .309 to .320 by smashing out 14 hits in 33 tries during the week.

Fall River Soccer Team Heads Home

HAVANA, Cuba, July 22 (AP)—The Ponta Delgada soccer team of Fall River, Mass., national amateur champions, was en route home today after withdrawing from the North American championships yesterday.

At a meeting last night the North American Soccer Football Ass'n declared the title tournament ended and awarded the championship to the Mexican entry.

Apparently bothered by the tropical heat and handicapped by the loss of several players by injuries, the Ponta Delgadas were defeated in their first two starts in the three-team, round-robin series.

Schedule Favors Cards In Down-to-Wire Finish

Baseball fans are hereby given fair warning to be prepared for another hectic down-to-the-wire finish in the National League pennant race with the Dodgers and Cards once again assuming the leading roles, according to the Associated Press.

Despite the Brooks' handsome four-game bulge—six and a half over the fourth-place Redbirds—the Cards are not as bad off as first glance would seem to imply. The schedule is heavily in their favor.

Of the four chief contenders—Brooklyn, New York, Boston and St. Louis—the Cards have the most games left to play at home—38. The Giants have 30, the Braves 28 and the Dodgers have the least number of all, 26. In the intersectional clashes the Cards will be the home club twice while the others will serve as host only once. Besides, the Redbirds trail the Dodgers by only five games in the important lost column.

Is the importance of playing on one's home field over-emphasized? Well, just muse over these figures. Of 51 games played in the friendly confines of Ebbets Field, the Dodgers have won 36, lost 15 for a remarkable .706 percentage, fully 110 points above their season's overall record. No wonder the Dodger entourage, heading west today for the start of an 18-game road trip, was humming the familiar tune of "There's No Place Like Home."

In comparison, the Cards show a .615 home record with 24 won and 15 lost. The Braves have a 30-19 won and lost mark for .612 and the Giants boast a .596 figure for 28 wins and 10 losses.

Despite their satisfactory 11-8 road trip the last time out, the Dodgers have played only .447 ball away from home this season. Against the Cards, the Brooks show a 5-8 record including the disputed game of last Sunday which may or not be ordered replayed by league president Ford Frick.

It was their ability to dominate the Dodgers that enabled the Cards to overcome a 7½ game mid-season Brooklyn lead with a brilliant stretch drive that brought a flag in an unprecedented playoff last year. The Cards copped 16 of 24 from the Brooks in '46.

While the Braves and Giants can not be counted out by any means, the odds are against them. Of the Braves' 70 remaining games, 42 are on the road where they've played at a .475 gait to date. The Giants must play 43 of their remaining 73 games on foreign soil. Their away from home record is a fair .500.

The Dodgers staged a temporary farewell party at Ebbets Field yesterday by knocking off Cincinnati in both ends of a doubleheader, 7-4 and 4-3.

The Dodgers were forced to come from behind in each game, much to the delight of 35,092 cash customers made up the largest home attendance of the season.

Pete Reiser, the hard-luck champion, bruised his left shoulder when he fell while diving at Young's inside-the-park homer in the first game, and was forced to retire. Examination showed no fracture. Reiser is expected to be out for three or four days.

In the only other game played in the majors yesterday, the Phillies whipped the Pirates in Pittsburgh in a night game, 8-1, to stay out of the National League cellar.

All other teams were not scheduled, although the Yankees met the Braves in the annual hall of fame game at Cooperstown, N. Y., with the Braves eking out a 4-3 decision in 10 innings.

Before the game 15 newcomers were officially welcomed into baseball's Hall of Fame.

Len Strand 4-m. Miler?

STOCKHOLM, July 22 (INS)—In Lennart Strand, the time-pushing flash from Malmo, Swedish sportsmen are convinced they have the man who will run the four-minute mile.

He's the lad who is shoving the great Gunder Haag out of the limelight by his own amazing performances.

Strand has just equaled Haag's world record in 1500 meters at 3:43.0. Strand, outstanding for his modesty, believes he could have—says should have—clipped two-tenths of a second off that 1500-meter record.

Strand will turn his attention now to the mile. He goes to post in that event Aug. 8 with Ben Hulse, American miler, and it is hoped, Henry Eriksson second best in the 1500-meter run in the world today.

Pea Soup Fog Holds Up Yacht Classic

HALIFAX, July 22 (AP)—A pea-soup fog and a lightship that had to leave her station for supplies complicated the Marblehead-Halifax yacht race today as officials waited to name the winner of the International Deepwater Classic.

The Ticonderoga, a 72-foot ketch wearing a Miami Yacht Club burgee, led the first three of the 22 craft across the finish line with an elapsed time of 50 hours, 30 minutes from Halfway Rock at Marblehead, Mass.

The ketch, owned by A. P. Carlisle of East Islip, N. Y., finished the 366-mile race at the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron's breakwater about 6:35 p. m. and became the favorite. But whether he would be declared winner depended on the performance of others with greater time allowances.

Six hours astern of Ticonderoga came the Boston Yacht Club schooner Shoalwater. She crossed the line at 12:35 a. m.

Women's Eastern In Quarter-Finals

PHILADELPHIA, July 22 (AP)—Play in the Eastern States women's clay court tennis championships entered the quarter-finals today with third-seeded Mrs. Pearl Woolston Barandon a big favorite to repeat her 1945 triumph.

Mrs. Barandon, Haddonfield, N. J., net star, eliminated Olga Pennachio, West Chester, Pa., 6—0, 6—0, yesterday. The 1946 titlist, top-seeded Wilma Smith, Downs, Ill., decided to play in a Seabright, N. J., tournament rather than defend her championship here.

Second-seeded Laura Lou Jahn, Belmar, N. J., 14-year-old Middle States girls' champ, defeated Arane Schindler, Philadelphia.

Baby Born, Dies in Ambulance Crash

Marathoner Drinks—Sandra Rhodes, 5, of Las Vegas, Nev., accepts a drink of water from her trainer during the child's one-mile endurance swim in Lake Mead. The youngster trained for three months for her unusual feat. The coach, Louis Carter, is holder of the 25-mile swim record. INP Soundphoto

Strike-Bound—Ruth Warren and Dolores Rodriguez of San Francisco sit on their luggage with R. L. Staley, Southern Pacific passenger agent, as he scans bus timetable in order to send girls on their annual vacation. They had made reservations on the Southern Pacific only to find that the locomotive engineers of that line went on strike as the girls were heading for the mountains. Agreement to end strike was reached today.
